Rapist eludes officers

BENTON — An extensive car search Saturday night failed to turn up a suspect wanted for the rape of a Southeast Missouri State University coed near Benton about 8 p.m. Saturday.

The girl and her escort, a male student at University of Missouri- Rolla, both 19, were not identified by police.

The Scott County sheriff's office said the car in which the two were riding overheated three miles north of Benton on Interstate 55. They caught a ride to Benton from a passing motorist, picked up water at a service station and were taken back to the car by the same motorist. The two were en route to Sikeston to attend a sorority party.

The girl got into the car, according to sheriff's deputies, while the boy poured the water into the radiator.

At that point, a black male, described as being 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighing 150 pounds with a large Afro haircut appeared with a gun and demanded their money.

When the two told him they had only one dollar between them, the man locked the boy in the trunk of the car and took the girl to a ditch beside the road and raped her. The man told the girl to wait 25 minutes before going for help, or he'd kill them.

A search by 15 people failed to turn up the suspect. The sheriff's department is continuing the investigation.

When he approached the car, Ueltzen stuck a 410 gauge shotgun out the car window. Ryan grabbed the barrel of the gun and a shot went off, passing between Ryan's arm and his side. He was not injured.

Also in city jail is Randell Ellis May, 18, of St. Louis on charges of car theft. May was a passenger in the car.

Nixon shakes up his White House staff

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today announced the resignations of Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst and top White House aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman in a shakeup stemming from the Watergate affair.

He fired White House counsel John Dean III.

Nixon named Secretary of Defense Elliot Richardson to become acting attorney general and overseer of all federal investigations of the Watergate conspiracy.

After making these announcements, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon has asked for nationwide radio and television time to talk to the nation on the Watergate case at 9 p.m. EDT.

Nixon said in a statement that Kleindienst "asked to be relieved as attorney general because he felt that he could not appropriately continue as head of the Justice Department now that it appears its investigation of the Watergate and related cases may implicate individuals with whom he has had a close personal and professional association."

Saying he would nominate Richardson as attorney general, Nixon said that pending Senate action to confirm his choice, "I have asked him to involve himself immediately in the investigative process surrounding the Watergate matter."

He went on:

"As attorney general, Mr. Richardson will assume full responsibility and authority for coordinating all federal agencies in uncovering the whole truth about this and recommending appropriate changes in the law to prevent future campaign abuses of the sort recently uncovered. He will have total support from me in getting this job done."

The Watergate case stemmed from the break-in and bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Watergate complex here last summer. It has widened into broader charges of political espionage.

The President drew a distinction in describing the resignations of Ehrlichman and Haldeman—"two of my closest friends and trusted assistants in the White House"—and that of White House counsel Dean.

Nixon said he had "today requested and accepted" Dean's resignation but made no reference to having forced the departure of Ehrlichman and Haldeman. In fact his statement suggested they had initiated the step. He said:

"I know that their decision to resign was difficult; my decision to accept it was difficult; but I respect and appreciate the attitude that led them to it."

Effective immediately, Nixon said, special consultant Leonard Garment will "take on additional duties as counsel to the President and will continue acting in this capacity until a permanent successor to Mr. Dean is named."

The chief executive said Garment "will represent the White House in all matters relating to the Watergate investigation and will report directly to me."

Nixon to go on television

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon will address the nation via radio and television tonight, starting at 9 p.m. EDT, concerning the Watergate situation, NBC, CBS and ABC spokesmen said today.

Network spokesmen said there were indications the President would speak about 20 minutes.

River cresting; record levels set

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Major sandbagging efforts on levees along the Mississippi River halted at dusk Sunday for the first time in days as the mighty river began "flattening out" along southeastern Missouri.

The National Weather Service said the river would crest at most points in the southern part of the state late Sunday or today while continuing to fall slowly at St. Louis and points to the north.

The river stood at 43 feet late Sunday at St. Louis after hitting a record crest of 43.3 feet late Saturday, 13.3 feet above flood stage and breaking the previous record of 42 feet set in 1785.

The weather service said "without appreciable rainfall" the river will drop below flood levels at Hannibal, Mo., on May 9 and St. Louis on May 14.

"The critical flooding on the River des Peres, Cuivre and Meramec rivers in the St. Louis and St. Charles areas will respond to the slow recession on the Mississippi," the weather service said.

The Missouri River was reported falling rapidly in the central part of the state, dropping below the 23-foot flood stage at Jeffeeson City with a reading of 22.9 feet Sunday.

"Things are pretty stable at this time," said Garry Ketts from the Corps of Engineers St. Louis Flood Control Center. "But the threat always does exist when the river is this high.."

Ketts said the levees along the lower reaches of the Mississippi were being patroled around the clock and weak spots were being reinforced, but major work on the system has been stopped during the night.

On the Illinois River near Beardstown, Ill., however, some 200 National Guardsmen worked into the night Sunday to build up the McGee Levee, which protects several thousand acres of farmland, Ketts said. The Illinois is expected to crest there Tuesday at 27.2 feet, 13.2 feet above flood stage.

A teen-age girl from St. Marys, Mo., became the tenth victim of the flooding when she died Sunday at a St. Louis County hospital from injuries she received Friday while working as a volunteer in the Ste. Genevieve, Mo., area.

Donna Brewster, 14, was working on a sand truck, authorities said, when she fell from the truck. Nine other persons have drowned in Missouri and western Illinois since the renewed flooding began more than a week ago.

Even though the rivers have started to slowly recede, the weather service said "it will be one to two weeks or so before the water" on both the Missouri and Mississippi recedes enough for some

The disaster will include victims portraying various injuries and referees to judge the efficiency of the drill. A mock disaster must be conducted periodically for Missouri Delta Community Hospital to keep its accredidation.

Airport allocation may be near

CHARLESTON — Notification of fund allocation for the Mississippi County Airport is expected around the middle of May, according to Tom Mertens, airport engineer for the Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development.

Mertens explained that airport officials had sent a request to the Federal Aviation Administration in February requesting financial aid and a final environmental impact statement.

R. W. Booker and Associates of St. Louis consultant engineers, is preparing a detailed project application scheduled to be finished by the first week in May. "Following the processing of this application, the FAA should be able to prepare a grant offer by the first of June," Mertens said

"If the project moves on schedule the Mississippi County Court will be able to enter into the grant agreement by June 10."

"That grant agreement is a firm contract between the FAA and the Mississippi County Court where the FAA agrees to pay a portion of the construction of the airport in accordance with costs worked out from the preliminary plans," Mertens concluded.

Delay said, "No," and before sentences were pronounced, he added, "I'm at the mercy of the court."

The defendant's attorney asked the court to make the life sentences concurrent. He was opposed by Michael O'Neal, chief of the criminal division of the Missouri attorney general's office, and Ripley County Prosecutor James Hall, who both asked for consecutive sentences.

Former Yankee southpaw Whitey Ford received 255 votes for the Hall of Fame. He was 29 votes shy this winter when he first became eligible to be on the ballot.

Another industry for Dexter

DEXTER — Dexter is making plans to obtain yet another industry.

The Peco Tool and Die Company, an Indiana- based firm, will establish a plant in Dexter, to work closely with Arvin Industries and other industries in the area.

Approval for the plan was given by the Chamber of Commerce board of directors, and the proposal is now being processed by the city government.

The proposal would call for the voting of another revenue bond issue which would not cost the Dexter taxpayers any additional taxes. Proceeds from rental, paid by Peco Tool and Die, would pay for the bonds.

The proposal must have the approval of the Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, and plans are under way now to present the proposal to the state agency.

The factory building would be constructed in Dexter's rapidly developing industrial park, just east of Fram Road and south of Drainage Ditch No. 12 (Dudley ditch), on land now owned by the Chamber of Commerce.

Early indications are that the plant would not employ a large number of persons, but that all would be skilled workmen in the tool and die industry. Early estimates are that the firm would employ from 20 to 40 persons, all in the tool and die field.

Chamber of Commerce industrial development chairman Percy Clippard expressed himself as well pleased with the development.

Not only will the firm be an economic boost to the area, but will bring to Dexter a type of facility long- needed in this area, he said.

"Many industries inquire as to whether or not we have a tool and die firm in the area, and this new development could help other industries as well as Arvin," Clippard pointed out.

The C of C industrial committee has been negotiating with the firm for several weeks.

May 5-12 youth for St. Judes Hospital Week

DEXTER — Mayor Willis Conner has proclaimed May 5-12 as Youth For St. Jude's Hospital Week in Dexter, and a fund drive is being conducted.

Spearheading the drive are Mrs. James Carney and Mrs. Dewayne Zimmerman, who announced that a roadblock will be held today, with proceeds to go to the hospital.

The drive is being conducted in memory of Elizabeth Ann Carney, 4- year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Carney who died of leukemia May 18, 1967.

In addition to the roadblocks, a bake sale will be held May 5 and the Alice Rainey Dancers, students of Mrs. Zimmerman, will do a show on May 12.

One other campaign activity, a door to door solicitation, is scheduled for May 6.

The proclamation signed by Mayor Conner stresses the importance of contributing to the children's research hospital and the great service it has rendered to residents throughout this area.

5th man arraigned for service station murders

CARUTHERSVILLE — A fifth man believed to be involved in the recent spree of gas station robberies and killings along Interstate 55 surrendered to Pemiscot County sheriff's officers last week.

Howard Coleman turned himself in at the sheriff's office in Caruthersville. On Friday he was arraigned in Magistrate Court before Judge Jerry Stillman on a first degree murder charge in connection with the shooting death of Robert Wayne Fisk, 18, of Steele.

Coleman was found indigent and, after an attorney was appointed to represent him, the judge set Coleman's bond at $50,000.

Coleman, formerly of Tarpon Springs, Fla., now living in Blytheville, Ark., is believed to be the brother of Charles Edward Coleman who was apprehended after a gun battle near Pevely.

Charles Coleman, Eddie Orr and his brother, Leon Orr, were captured by authorities in a field near Pevely following the murder of a customer at a gas station in Ste. Genevieve.

Weekend before last, Danny Sims of Blytheville surrendered to Blytheville police and has been charged with first degree murder, assault with intent to kill and armed robbery.

The Orr brothers and Charles Coleman have been charged with first degree murder in connection with the shooting death of Thomas C. Davis, 19, of Weingarten. He was the customer at the gas station.

When Pros. Atty. Art Stephenson filed the first degree murder charge against Howard Coleman, it marked the fifth man to be so charged. As far as it is known now, only five men were involved in the murder- robberies.

The series of murder-robberies began in Osceola, Ark., March 31, when the wife of a gas station owner was shot and killed. Clay Elmore, owner of the station where his wife Hazel was killed, sustained a bullet wound.

The series continued on April 5 when Fisk, a gas station attendant at the Raceway Service Station near Holland was shot and killed. That station was robbed of about $130.

Fisk was found dead on a country road about one and one- half miles from his father's station. He was shot once in the back and once in the back of the head with a 30-30 high powered rifle.

Then came the Ste. Genevieve attempted holdup where two men were killed. Dead at the scene was Davis, the customer. Rick Stretch of Ste. Genevieve, an attendant at the station, died later in a St. Louis hospital.

Another man at the station, Mark Baumgartner, sustained a bullet wound in the neck. He has been reported in good condition.

Blytheville authorities have recovered the weapons believed used in the Osceola and Holland killings. The weapons were recovered weekend before last during a search of a south Blytheville home.

National postal week begins Monday

"Postal Week", designated by Postmaster General E.T. Klassen as a time for "recognition of the vital responsibilities assigned to the mail service" begins Monday in Sikeston.

In announcing the schedule of the week's activities, Postmaster Don Pasaka noted the Postmaster General's statement that this week is a valid time "to take stock of the challenges which must be jointly met by postal people and by the millions of citizens throughout America who depend upon the mail as an essential part of their personal and business lives."

The week's activities will be highlighted Monday (April 30) with Postal People Day observances at the local post office, during which ten stamps honoring the postal people who serve America will be issued for the first time.

Postmaster Pasaka says that all postal customers visiting the Sikeston post office on Postal People Day will be given free souvenir envelopes, printed with special cachets, so long as a limited supply lasts.

If customers desire, they may purchase Local First Day Covers, featuring the ten 8 cent stamps, for the 80 cents face value of the stamps. Official First Day Covers, consisting of two types, may be ordered. Order blanks and information may be obtained at the Sikeston post office windows.

During "Postal Week" will be a good time for persons or groups who are interested to visit the office to learn more about local postal operations, Postmaster Pasaka observed.

Essex Postmaster D.E. Stafford and Gray Ridge Postmaster Beatrice Burris have also reported that their offices will give away free souvenir envelopes in observance of Postal Week.

GIVE STUFFED ANIMALS AT EASTER

CHICAGO (AP) — Giving baby rabbits, chicks and ducks for Easter is frowned upon by the American Veterinary Medical Assn., which urges parents not to give living animals as toys to children.

A baby rabbit, chick or duck is not likely to survive in the home atmosphere, the association says. A young child's enthusiasm often results in broken wings and legs. If the animal dies or is injured, it is a traumatic experience for the child.

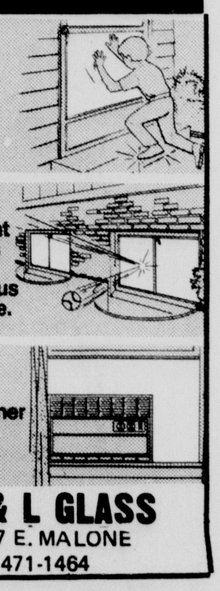

Also, many outdoor animals are carriers of diseases such as salmonellosis, a severe gastro-intestinal infection.

Spoofs and Stars All Contribute To Carol Burnett's Autograph Book

Carol Burnett's skillful and hilarious spoofs of some of Hollywood's most famous movie queens have become a favorite feature of her popular weekly variety series, "The Carol Burnett Show," on the CBS Television Network.

On the series, now in its sixth season, Miss Burnett has parodied famous screen roles of such great stars as Doris Day, Lana Turner, Mae West, Joan Crawford, Esther Williams, Marlene Dietrich, Jeanette MacDonald, Shirley Temple, Bette Davis, Rita Hayworth, Gloria Swanson and Helen Hayes.

The hilarious payoff was a devastating impersonation of Rita Hayworth's memorable performance in the film, "Gilda." Miss Hayworth saw the program and was so amused she sent Miss Burnett a telegram saying: "I loved it. You should have done the original."

Miss Burnett called Miss Hayworth, invited her to be a guest, and that program was another outstanding one, with Miss Hayworth doing some spoofing of her own, donning Miss Burnett's "charwoman" costume and giving an hilarious impression of Carol Burnett.

Even though she is now an established celebrity herself, Carol Burnett still considers herself a fan. Her habit of collecting autographs led to the "sign-off" on "The Carol Burnett Show" where each guest star signs her name in her autograph book.

Miss Burnett admits she gets a special thrill from meeting and working with big-name entertainment personalities. "That's why I like doing a variety series," she says. "The variety format gives me a chance to have many different stars to work with— performers I've admired from a distance as well as others I admire close-up and known as personal friends."

This season, for example, her guest list includes singers Jim Nabors, Steve Lawrence, Eydie Gorme, Cass Elliot, Helen Reddy, Pearl Bailey, Peggy Lee, John Davidson, Melva Moore, Joel Grey, Anthony Newley and Bernadette Peters. Comedy guest stars are Carol Channing, Marty Feldman, Andy Griffith, Paul Sand, Jack Gilford, Tim Conway, Stiller & Meara, Lily Tomlin, Ruth Buzzi and Carl Reiner.

With six hugh autograph books filled with names like those, Miss Burnett could retire and spend the rest of her life selling autographs.

Loggins & Messina Reach Top in Triple Time

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Loggins and Messina gave two shows in New York's Carnegie Hall the night before they sang "Your Mama Don't Dance" at the presentation of Grammy Awards in Nashville.

Talking between the two shows in a Carnegie Hall dressing room, they said they didn't expect to win the Grammy for best new act of the past year; they thought America would. They were right about that.

And they've been right, musically, since they first performed together, at the Troubadour in Los Angeles in February 1972, to their present tight, enjoyable show, two LPs and hit single.

The LPs, "Sittin' In" and "Loggins and Messina," were Nos. 57 and 23 on the best-selling chart of March 10. The single, "Your Mama Don't Dance," was in the top 10 five weeks, starting Jan. 6.

Jim Messina, 25, one month older than Ken Loggins,says, "I figured, if we really worked hard, it would take a year to get started, a year to saturate the country and the third year we could start realizing a profit.

"But it wasn't but a few months until we were established and a few months later we were brought to the attention of the industry. It's taken about a year to go where it normally would take three years. But it's really been intense; we've made a lot of sacrifices for this whole thing."

For one thing, there was a year of getting together a six-man band, counting themselves, and rehearsing, before that appearance at the Troubadour. "Instead of saying they're sidemen, we pay them a salary and portion of record royalties and bonuses and think of them as more than sidemen. But it's mainly an outlet for Kenny and I as writers and singers and performers. Democracies don't always work; I've been through a couple of them."

Messina, who was working as a recording engineer in Los Angeles, met Buffalo Springfield in 1967 and engineered the group's second album, "Buffalo Springfield Again." For the third and final album, "Last Time Around," he was producer and bass player.

Then he and another Springfield, Richie Furay, formed Poco. Messina was musician and producer with Poco during its first three albums. One thing he learned from all that was how easy it is for a rock group to get into debt—with the expenses of shipping equipment around, plane fares, hotel bills, etc.

"A few years ago I figured out as a rule of thumb that if each man is capable, from royalties, performances and publishing, of generating $50,000 a year—that means a five-man group has to gross $250,000 a year—you could meet your expenses and pay yourselves a salary of about $100 a week. If you're not having the kind of success where you're doing that, then you're in a lot of trouble. You're supposed to be going out to make the public happy; you can really be working to get yourself out of a hole.

"We bought equipment that wasn't very expensive and we're being very, very careful with our money."

Loggins, who leaves most of the talking to Messina, adds that they didn't put an insert of song lyrics in their albums because that doubles the cost of producing the albums—a cost that is borne by the performers.

Loggins performed with a folk group and a rock group called Second Helping before, in 1969, becoming a songwriter for a publishing company. One of his first efforts, "House at Pooh Corner," was a hit for the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band.

Loggins says, "There was a strong Pooh thing happening in those days. There were a lot of buttons. I had one that said 'Pooh for Peace.' So I thought a song about Pooh would be nice."

Columbia Records signed Loggins in 1971 as a solo artist. Messina, who had been hired by the company in 1970 as a producer, produced, but he sang along some too and the album that resulted was called "Kenny Loggins with Jim Messina Sittin' In."

Messina says, "Kenny and I are signed to the record company and also Kenny is signed to me as far as allowing me to produce a certain number of his LPs. We're not signed together so that we have to perform together as artists. We have a minimal amount of commitment together. He has a choice. He can work with me or by himself. If I'm hassling his career, he doesn't have to worry about legal obligations that would keep him tied to me.

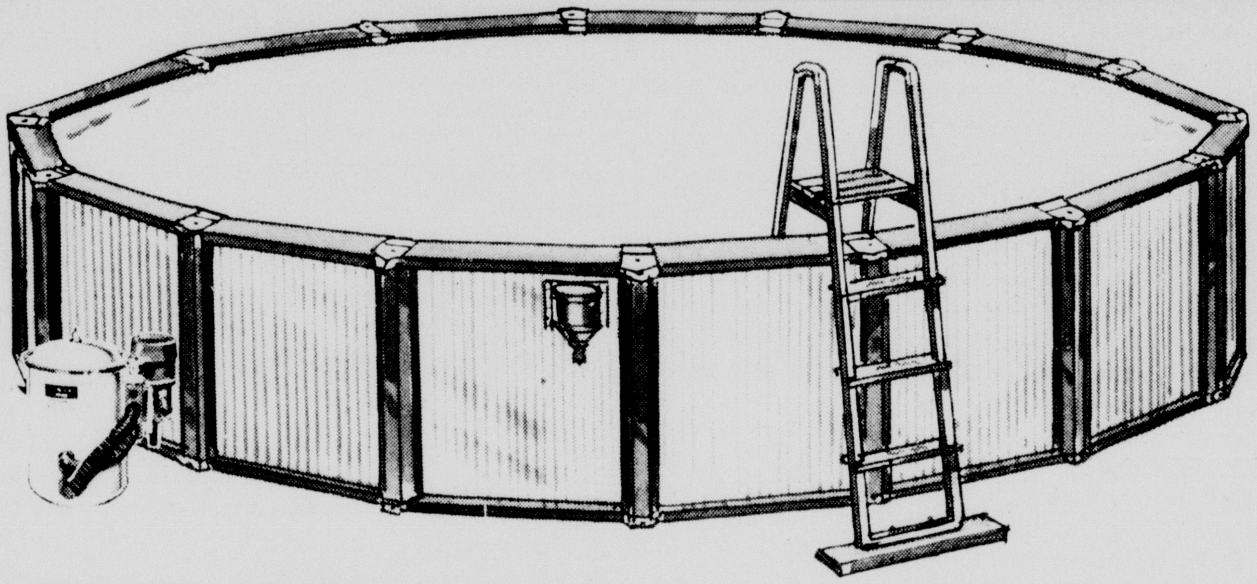

"In the future, as we get better known, it will be more economic for him to record with me. But that shouldn't have anything to do with his personal, esthetic feeling. If we can't work out whatever problems come up, he should be able to move on and be comfortable in his life."

Loggins and Messina now have started to write songs together. "Your Mama Don't Dance" was a collaboration. What they're hoping for, they say, is a song that will live after them—win a Grammy—be made into Musak.

The four sets in two nights at Carnegie Hall plus two sets in Boston are being recorded for a live album.

Rapist eludes officers

BENTON — An extensive car search Saturday night failed to turn up a suspect wanted for the rape of a Southeast Missouri State University coed near Benton about 8 p.m. Saturday.

The girl and her escort, a male student at University of Missouri- Rolla, both 19, were not identified by police.

The Scott County sheriff's office said the car in which the two were riding overheated three miles north of Benton on Interstate 55. They caught a ride to Benton from a passing motorist, picked up water at a service station and were taken back to the car by the same motorist. The two were en route to Sikeston to attend a sorority party.

The girl got into the car, according to sheriff's deputies, while the boy poured the water into the radiator.

At that point, a black male, described as being 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighing 150 pounds with a large Afro haircut appeared with a gun and demanded their money.

When the two told him they had only one dollar between them, the man locked the boy in the trunk of the car and took the girl to a ditch beside the road and raped her. The man told the girl to wait 25 minutes before going for help, or he'd kill them.

A search by 15 people failed to turn up the suspect. The sheriff's department is continuing the investigation.

Ueltzen is jailed; shot at patrolman

Jerry Wayne Ueltzen, 19, of St. Louis is in city jail today charged with assault with a deadly weapon and auto theft as a result of taking a shot at Ronald Ryan of the highway patrol Saturday night.

According to the patrol, Trooper Ryan stopped a car on Interstate 55 just north of Matthews at 10:50 p.m. Saturday night. When he approached the car, Ueltzen stuck a 410 gauge shotgun out the car window. Ryan grabbed the barrel of the gun and a shot went off, passing between Ryan's arm and his side. He was not injured.

Also in city jail is Randell Ellis May, 18, of St. Louis on charges of car theft. May was a passenger in the car.

Man arrested on firearms charge

Detectives Leonard Campbell and Dan Hinton were called to the market by an auxiliary policeman who discovered Hamby attempting to sell a revolver and crossbow without a permit. The two detectives purchased the weapons, then arrested Hamby.

Campbell and Hinton confiscated a .357 magnum revolver, a belt and holster, 12 rounds of ammunition and a crossbow and arrow.

One person was killed and 17 were injured over the weekend in seven area traffic accidents, according to the highway patrol.

Nixon shakes up his White House staff

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today announced the resignations of Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst and top White House aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman in a shakeup stemming from the Watergate affair.

He fired White House counsel John Dean III.

Nixon named Secretary of Defense Elliot Richardson to become acting attorney general and overseer of all federal investigations of the Watergate conspiracy.

After making these announcements, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon has asked for nationwide radio and television time to talk to the nation on the Watergate case at 9 p.m. EDT.

Nixon said in a statement that Kleindienst "asked to be relieved as attorney general because he felt that he could not appropriately continue as head of the Justice Department now that it appears its investigation of the Watergate and related cases may implicate individuals with whom he has had a close personal and professional association."

Saying he would nominate Richardson as attorney general, Nixon said that pending Senate action to confirm his choice, "I have asked him to involve himself immediately in the investigative process surrounding the Watergate matter."

He went on:

"As attorney general, Mr. Richardson will assume full responsibility and authority for coordinating all federal agencies in uncovering the whole truth about this and recommending appropriate changes in the law to prevent future campaign abuses of the sort recently uncovered. He will have total support from me in getting this job done."

The Watergate case stemmed from the break-in and bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Watergate complex here last summer. It has widened into broader charges of political espionage.

The President drew a distinction in describing the resignations of Ehrlichman and Haldeman—"two of my closest friends and trusted assistants in the White House"—and that of White House counsel Dean.

Nixon said he had "today requested and accepted" Dean's resignation but made no reference to having forced the departure of Ehrlichman and Haldeman. In fact his statement suggested they had initiated the step. He said:

"I know that their decision to resign was difficult; my decision to accept it was difficult; but I respect and appreciate the attitude that led them to it."

Effective immediately, Nixon said, special consultant Leonard Garment will "take on additional duties as counsel to the President and will continue acting in this capacity until a permanent successor to Mr. Dean is named."

The chief executive said Garment "will represent the White House in all matters relating to the Watergate investigation and will report directly to me."

Nixon to go on television

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon will address the nation via radio and television tonight, starting at 9 p.m. EDT, concerning the Watergate situation, NBC, CBS and ABC spokesmen said today.

Network spokesmen said there were indications the President would speak about 20 minutes.

Mock disaster planned

A mock disaster will take place in the near future in Sikeston. The date, time and place are being kept a secret to make the drill more realistic for civil defense, law enforcement, emergency and medical groups participating in the drill.

Residents are cautioned not to be alarmed if one of these days sirens start screeching and police cars, ambulances and fire department vehicles start rushing through the streets of Sikeston.

The disaster will include victims portraying various injuries and referees to judge the efficiency of the drill. A mock disaster must be conducted periodically for Missouri Delta Community Hospital to keep its accredidation.

River cresting; record levels set

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Major sandbagging efforts on levees along the Mississippi River halted at dusk Sunday for the first time in days as the mighty river began "flattening out" along southeastern Missouri.

The National Weather Service said the river would crest at most points in the southern part of the state late Sunday or today while continuing to fall slowly at St. Louis and points to the north.

The river stood at 43 feet late Sunday at St. Louis after hitting a record crest of 43.3 feet late Saturday, 13.3 feet above flood stage and breaking the previous record of 42 feet set in 1785.

The weather service said "without appreciable rainfall" the river will drop below flood levels at Hannibal, Mo., on May 9 and St. Louis on May 14.

"The critical flooding on the River des Peres, Cuivre and Meramec rivers in the St. Louis and St. Charles areas will respond to the slow recession on the Mississippi," the weather service said.

The Missouri River was reported falling rapidly in the central part of the state, dropping below the 23-foot flood stage at Jeffeeson City with a reading of 22.9 feet Sunday.

"Things are pretty stable at this time," said Garry Ketts from the Corps of Engineers St. Louis Flood Control Center. "But the threat always does exist when the river is this high.."

Ketts said the levees along the lower reaches of the Mississippi were being patroled around the clock and weak spots were being reinforced, but major work on the system has been stopped during the night.

On the Illinois River near Beardstown, Ill., however, some 200 National Guardsmen worked into the night Sunday to build up the McGee Levee, which protects several thousand acres of farmland, Ketts said. The Illinois is expected to crest there Tuesday at 27.2 feet, 13.2 feet above flood stage.

A teen-age girl from St. Marys, Mo., became the tenth victim of the flooding when she died Sunday at a St. Louis County hospital from injuries she received Friday while working as a volunteer in the Ste. Genevieve, Mo., area.

Donna Brewster, 14, was working on a sand truck, authorities said, when she fell from the truck. Nine other persons have drowned in Missouri and western Illinois since the renewed flooding began more than a week ago.

Even though the rivers have started to slowly recede, the weather service said "it will be one to two weeks or so before the water" on both the Missouri and Mississippi recedes enough for some

CITIZEN PARTICIPATION IN THE BICENTENNIAL

A classic nightmare is when one dreams that one is running faster and faster, yet not moving a step forward, and the dreamer is helpless to do anything about it. So it has seemed to Americans anxious for the American Revolution Bicentennial to show some signs it will actually happen.

During seven long years the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission has produced elaborate plans -- on paper -- but nothing significant has happened.

Now, the Nixon Administration has initiated a new proposal. Abolish the Commission and create a Bicentennial Administrator. Shelve the 50- person public Commission where conflicts of view neutralize action. Instead, let the Administrator act freely within a limited sphere, but let him act.

But, no sooner had the Administration bill gone through a House Judiciary Subcommittee hearing, than a flurry of amendments were proposed and a substitue bill was introduced. It now seems that unless there is an overwhelming demand for action from the public we may see snow again before the issue is resolved by competing branches of the Federal Government.

There may be one saving grace; namely, the individual initiative and voluntary action for which Americans once were world renown. One citizen action expert in Northern Virginia is getting the entire northern section of the Old Dominion organized for Bicentennial action. Already the citizens group has held its first commemoration. Appropriately, they marked the 200th anniversary of Virginia's creation of the first Provinicial Committee of Correspondence with a flurry of letters to mayors of the 13 original colonies and to American Legion Departments all over the nation, urging Bicentennial action now.

"The American Revolution was a citizens movement," say the citizen involvement authority, Donald L. Miller, of Alexandria. "It's appropriate that citizens start now to observe the real Revolution, the radical changes in principles, opinion, sentiments and affections of the people which came in the years preceding the Declaration of Independence and the outbreak of the fighting."

Hal Boyle

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — I agreed to stand by him in sickness and in health—but nobody said anything about high cholesterol.

Though it wasn't spelled out in the marriage contract, when the doctor put my husband on a strict diet I became a chemist instead of a cook.

I may forget how to make sauce bearnaise, but I can remember the fat content and ratio of polyunsaturates to saturates of every edible from consomme to peanuts.

I no longer look at prices at the grocery — I look at labels. I am more delighted to find an item that contains the proper diglycerides and propylene glycol monostearates than I would be to find filet mignon at 73 cents a pound.

An otherwise likely candidate for our larder goes back on the shelf when my magnifying glass reveals that the forbidden hydrogenated vegetable oil lurks among such innocuous ingredients as ferric orthophosphate, isopropyl citrate, pyridoxine and lecithin.

Fortunately, the food industry knows which side its shortening-free bread is margerined on, and has come up with lookalikes for some of the items that are off limits in low cholesterol diets.

Cream, a definite no-no, has all sorts of stand-ins, from pale powders that come in jars to liquids that hang out in small cardboard cartons and try to emulate their fatty cousins in looks and coffee-lightening activities.

Since egg yolks are packed chock full of cholesterol milligrams, my husband's over-easy breakfast piece de resistance has been eliminated.

However, all has not been lost. A substitute egg, which resembles the real thing in every way except cholesterol content, has appeared on the market. Thaw it, shake it, scramble it and, according to my resident ex-gourmet, it tastes so much like the original that even a mother hen would cluck tenderly over it.

The whole business does complicate breakfast production though. While I guiltily fry my fat-streaked bacon and mistyeyed egg and pamper my shortening-laced bread with butter, with the other hand I am parsimoniously placing margerine on toast and swirling what passes for eggs in a Tefloncoated pan.

The crunch will come some day when I mistake the little cardboard carton the fake egg comes in for the little cardboard carton the fake cream comes in and my eating partner ends up with ersatz egg in his coffee.

Editor's Note: Hal Boyle is ill.

Being a powerful and great nation has its problems. For many years other nations had the idea Uncle Sam had unlimited resources and all they had to do was hollar real loud and we would give 'em the moon.

A recent editorial in the Kansas City Star was entitled, "Is the Panama Canal Worth the Chronic U. S. Headache?" The editorial infers that if Panama wants the canal let 'em have it -- it's not worth fighting for. The fact we have spent billions building up the canal and have many millions of dollars invested means nothing to intellectuals who somehow have the erroneous idea we can goof off billions and still maintain our way of life.

The fact we are rich nation is to the good and our whole outlook should be to preserve what we have and not give it away to other nations who are controlled by the Communists.

For the first time in many years, America has stiff competition and it will get worse. We have lost billions to Japan and West Germany and these countries have the know how and technical ability to improve their products and we can't compete with them labor-wise.

In the meantime, the U. S. is faced with serious inflation and how to control the upward spiral is a headache Nixon and Congress will have to face. If wages continue to increase everything you buy will aos cost more. It's a vicious circle and the end is not in sight. If regulations are too stiff it could cause a recession and nobody wants that to happen.

We're living in a time when decisions by the President and Congress could change our way of life overnight. All of us who classify ourselves as good Americans should realize that too remain free and enjoy the good life takes a little more than griping about the way our country is being governed. We have to do our part to make the system work and we're playing for high stakes.

J. PAUL'S TESTIMONIALS

Someone did a magnificent selling job when J. Paul Getty was persuaded to appear as the spokesman for E. F. Hutton & Company on TV commercials. He was paid $1 for his readings and will be seen this fall during network newscasts and sports programs. Now that the ice has been broken, we may expect to see other billionaires on the air such as Aristotle Onassis for the Parthenon Travel Agency, Howard Hughes for the Desert Inn in Las Vegas, and Joe Namath for the Newark YWCA.

NUCLEAR POWER PLANTS CALLED RADIONOTSOACTIVE

Nuclear power plants, now being built or operating in Lake Michigan, will not cause radioactivity to build up to hazardous levels in the water or invertebrates.

The study, sponsored by six electric utilities, was conducted on samples of phytoplankton, zooplankton, benthos, water, and sediment.

TROUBLEMAKERS DO NOT SPEAK FOR U.S. INDIANS

On several occasions recently, our Indian citizens have been put in the spotlight by news reports of agitation and violence conducted in their name.

Several years ago a violent group, claiming to act in the name of all Indians, took over Alcatraz Island in San Francisco Bay. Then came the seizure and occupation of the Bureau of Indian Affairs Building in Washington, ending in extensive vandalism which cost the taxpayers over a million dollars to repair. Wounded Knee, South Dakota, is the latest.

Support for the agitators comes from familiar quarters. Appearing at Wounded Knee was lawyer William Kunstler, who has been defense counsel for such farleft groups as the Students for a Democratic Society and W.E.B. DuBois Clubs and was sentenced for contempt of court in the "Chicago Seven" trial in 1970. Joining in support was admitted communist Angela Davis.

Legitimate elected spokesmen for our Indian citizens have denounced these troublemakers. When the Bureau of Indian Affairs was seized last year, Indians from the National Tribal Chairmen's Association, representing about three- quarters of the Indians in the United States, said of those involved: "These Indians must have been under the influence of drugs. No Indian in his right mind would do this." The Oglala Sioux Tribal Council, speaking for Indians on the reservation where Wounded Knee is located, passed a resolution calling for the militants to be ousted from the reservation as "undesirables." Indian citizens have some legitimate grievances, but their responsible leaders wisely ruled out violence in dealing with them. HLH

Mob's Terror Tax:
$16 Billion Massive Annual Thievery Rockets Cost of Living

WASHINGTON-- Mafia-watchers know there is an organized underworld underground "criminal distribution system" which has a built- in terror- tax on rent, food, clothing, medicines, and the little baubles, radios, televisions and other ingredients of living.

Its about to be exposed by Nevada Sen. Alan Bible's placid- sounding Committee on Small Business. This title is semantic. The committee plans to rip open--- we hope--- one of the nation's biggest rackets--- the stealing business. Some $16 billion annually. Since what is stolen generally is turned into cash, there's a "middle man."

The "fence" we call him.

If the Senate committee probers', masked convicts', and crusading District Attorney's testimony is accurate, then "sitting on the fence" will be doubly semantic. The multi-million- dollar racket--- not all of it Mafiosi and much of it pouring through infiltrated legitimate business, banks and stock brokerages, airports, highways and docks--- will be smashed.

It's easy to sling figures around. But the $16 billion annual theft and hijacking total comes from the Department of Commerce. Much of this, I am told, is in the form of construction tools and equipment, light and sometimes very heavy--- by "the ton."

Here we get into the hundreds of millions of dollars in extra building costs. Candidly, no one has the exact total. But in New York City alone, the District Attorney's office reports $50 million in construction tools and machinery is stolen each year.

Furthermore, the loot is stolen on order.

That's right. On order. There are those who need equipment and want it cheap. They make their "contact." He gets to the "fence." The order is placed. The material is stolen. Then it is "fenced"--- sold on a commission basis or the "fence" buys the stuff outright and resells it.

In frustrated law enforcement headquarters, the word is that you can walk into any big city, place an order, and the equipment will be stolen, "fenced" and delivered. So, if the figure is $50 million yearly in New York, what does it total nationally? And who really pays for it in the end? The home builder, the owner, the apartment dweller, and the executives paying business rentals, of course. Up goes the insurance. Up go the rents.

But this is a small part of the $16 billion worth of annual thievery. Some reports indicate that, in all, some $2 billion is stolen annually in the transportation of cargo alone. It is said that organized gangs as well as Mafiosi ring virtually every international airport.

Thus the hardest hit is truck cargo. In 1969, the thievery and hijacking of trucks, some of them carrying air freight, some hauling anything from dresses to cigarettes, came to $702 million. Today it is well over a billion dollars yearly. The "heists" are pulled along any central city street, boulevard or crossing. Like the Old West stagecoach days.

Legitimate truckers report they were confounded to learn in some cities that they could get very little police help, little prosecutors' protection and little more than a stifled yawn when they reported the hijacking.

So they organized their own police force with all the modern gadgets. It was run by the Trucking Industry Committee on Theft and Hijacking (TICOTH). This was in early 1969. Then in 1970, the truckers and the Teamsters national office wrote a clause in their National Master Freight Hauling contract creating a National Cargo Security Committee.

Now everybody works with everybody else--- the union, the truckers, the Justice Department, the Transportation Department and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Trouble is that the thievery rockets. The rackets haven't been disturbed. Apparently, the mobsters know whom to reach. Their "fences" do it for them.

And the tribe will increase if the spotlight isn't on the reports and exposes of Sen. Bible. The airport rackets and trucking heists are the "thing."

Soon the international airports will move as much cargo as do the docks. Experts believe that, with the new Boeing 747s and the Lockheed L500s, the docks, even with new close- by "container farms" (areas in which huge steel containers are packed for automatic ship loading), will run behind on cargo. The L500 can carry 100 small cars and spare parts and accessories in one load. And it can make four cross- country trips a day. Or transatlantic crossings.

Obviously, the hijacking and massive thievery will skyrocket at the airports. Obviously, past exposures haven't slowed this. But the stolen stuff must be sold.

If gangs can't "fence" the loot, there may be no point in plotting and stealing. So the Senate committee is zeroing in on the underground "criminal distribution system."

If this is cut down, so will the cost of living and doing business.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
The Watergate Follies

WASHINGTON-- The Watergate Follies, set to music, would make splendid comic opera. Here are just a few stranger- than- fiction episodes THE LEFT HANDED PITCH: G. Gordon Liddy, the Watergate ringleader, tried to impress a couple of girls in Detroit by holding his hand over a flaming candle. His hand was so badly burned that it almost spoiled his Watergate presentation before Attorney General John Mitchell, White House counsel John Dean and campaign aide Jeb Stuart Magruder in Mitchell's office on February 4, 1972.

Liddy brought along huge, fancy charts to illustrate the bugging operation. Because he couldn't carry the cumbersome charts in his injured right hand, he juggled them awkwardly in his left. This trouble with the charts detracted from his otherwise slick, Madison Avenue- style presentation of the Watergate crime there in the citadel of law- and- order.

BUGGING ON CREDIT: President Nixon's fund raisers stashed millions in campaign boodle across the country, yet they still haven't paid for all the bugging equipment the Watergate wiretappers were carrying when they were caught. The Committee to Re-Elect the President still owes $13,600 to Michael Stevens, whose Chicago company supplied the buggers with sophisticated electronic devices. Some of the equipment was actually in use, but six custom- made, high frequency transmitters and receivers, four of them suitable for bugging rooms, the other two for intercepting phone conversations, were ordered but never picked up.

One of the conspirators, James McCord, surreptitiously came for some of the equipment at 3 o'clock one morning. Through his attorneys, McCord acknowledged the purchases and said he had paid $5,400 in cash, leaving the balance due. Devan Shumway, spokesman for the President's committee, told us "it would be inappropriate to pay any such bill for equipment allegedly used for illegal purposes."

SPY IN A CLOSET: Whodunit writer E. Howard Hunt, another Watergate conspirator, was assigned to reconnoiter the Watergate layout. He tried to enter through a dining room, but couldn't get a connecting door open without alarming a guard.

So the ex- CIA agent remained locked in the dining room all night, sleeping in a closet. He finally escaped at 7 a.m. after the office building was opened and began to fill with people.

ALIASES AND DISGUISES: The Three Stooges of the Watergate Follies-- Liddy, Hunt and McCord-- took elaborate precautions to conceal their nefarious activities. Hunt sometimes wore a preposterous red wig to go with his patrician looks. All three used assumed names, carried false identification, communicated by pay phones and exchanged cryptic messages.

Liddy's most successful pseudonym was "George," the real first name he never uses. One day, Watergate conspirator Bernard Barker called Liddy's White House office and asked for "George." Puzzled, Liddy's secretary said there was a phone call for George. "Just who is George?" demanded George Gordon Liddy.

OLIVER'S SECRET: Hundreds of thousands of dollars were spent on the Watergate bugging and its consequences. Lost in all the hullabaloo has been the intelligence that the Republicans got for their money.

A wiretap was successfully installed on the office phone of Democratic party official Spencer Oliver. The first problem was that there were two Spencer Olivers, father and son. The most momentous information picked up by the wiretappers was that one of the Spencer Olivers was planning a trip to either North Carolina or South Carolina to talk to North Carolina's former governor, Terry Sanford.

DAY AFTER WATERGATE: On the eve of their arrest, the Watergate burglary- bugging crew had trouble gaining access to Democratic headquarters. Bernard Barker telephoned a cryptic message to Liddy that he was having key trouble. Trouble with the "car key," he added mysteriously.

Nevertheless, the crew broke into the Democratic lair and was arrested at gunpoint at 2:30 this morning. The news caused panic inside the President's campaign headquarters. Liddy phoned press chief Devan Shumway to explain they had a minor "public relations problem" at the Committee for the Re-Election of the President.

As the news spread, officials began removing and destroying sensitive documents. Liddy began churning documents through a small shredder, then rushed upstairs to a larger shredder that would do the job faster. His secretary, Sally Harmony, even shredded her shorthand notebooks eventually.

Other officials, not knowing the President's campaign security chief James McCord had led the burglary squad, discussed whether burglars could break into their headquarters. Not a chance, campaign administrator Robert Odle assured them. He told them he had brought in an experienced security man to equip every nook and cranny with antibreak- in devices. What was the man's name? Jim McCord, Odle told them proudly.

STRANGE BOOKKEEPING: The stolid McCord, the ultimate bureaucrat, tried to give Hunt's wife a receipt when she delivered hush money to him in an envelope. Even Liddy signed small white chits with a special mark when he withdrew cash from the committee.

But former White House aide Gordon Strachan delivered $350,000 in $20, $50 and $100 bills to the Watergate apartment of campaign official Fred LaRue. No receipt was asked and none was given.

Fire damages home

Firemen were called at 12:50 p.m. Sunday to the Homer Edwards home at 833 Ruth St. when a fire swept through a back bedroom and the attic.

Fire Chief Larry Linnemeyer said the fire was apparently caused by faulty wiring in the bedroom of the six- room frame home.

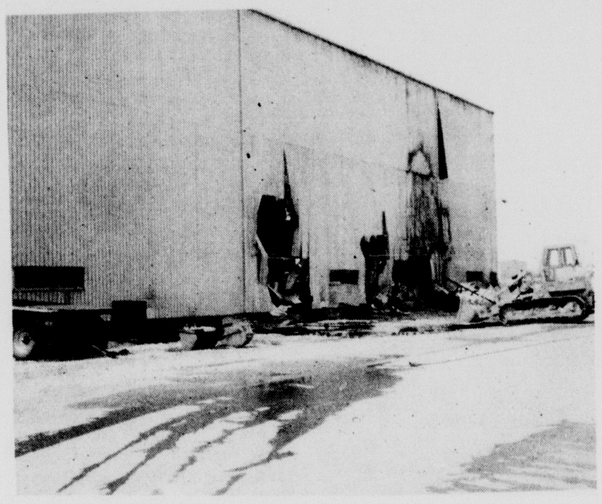

Linnemeyer said the bedroom and attic were extensively damaged and the remainder of the home suffered smoke damage. Firemen were at the scene for one hour.

Building damaged

Firemen were called at 1:30 p.m. Sunday to Noranda Aluminum, Inc. in St. Jude Industrial Park where fire of undetermined origin had ignited a maintenance storage building. Estimated damage has not been determined, however, a Noranda employe said damage was limited mostly to the building. Very little equipment was in the building at the time of the fire. The case of the conforming house

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Jasper was part of a group of 10 young adults, male and female, some of whom were dirtier than others only because they were older. Overcoming an apparent strong fear of bathing, they rented a one- family house at the seashore. And while the waves roared, they didn't roar half as loud as certain members of the community who objected to the presence amongst them of Jasper and his group. In fact, they finally complained to the Town Board and a lawsuit was started to oust Jasper and his crew from the one- family house.

"Their occupancy of the house," local officials told the judge, "is in violation of the law. Zoning regulations allow for only 'one- family' residences in the area. And Jasper and his young adults aren't a family, they're a convention."

"There's no violation," retorted Jasper. "The house is, in fact, a 'one- family' residence. Consequently, it complies with the zoning regulations. And while the house may have to conform, there's no law that we have to also."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you oust Jasper and his group from the one- family house?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that in occupying the one- family house, Jasper and his group were in violation of the zoning regulations. Considering the ordinary and commonly accepted meaning of the phrase "one family," Jasper's 10 unrelated adult friends could hardly be considered as constituting a family.

Ann Landers

'Dirty' mail should be sent to post office inspector

Dear Ann Landers: Now that society has taken a permissive attitude toward hard- core pornography it seems that whenever I go to the mailbox there is some dirty thing that I have to tear up so my children don't see it.

I don't know how in heaven's name I got on these mailing lists. I have never sent for anything except a seed catalog and kitchen gadgets. I have no interest in this trash and I don't want it coming to our home. Mind you, I have no desire to deprive those who enjoy looking at garbage but why must people who don't want it be subjected to this invasion of privacy?

Will you please tell us, Ann Landers, what we can do?--- Mrs. Square America

Dear M.S.A.: The federal government has been successfully prosecuting several major purveyors of mail- order obscenity as a result of complaints filed by postal inspectors. The most effective way of handling the problem, Mrs. Square America, is to reseal the envelope and write on it, in bold letters, Postal Inspector, Please. Then drop it in the mailbox. No stamp is necessary.

Dear Ann Landers: First let me say I have two wonderful parents. They mean well, but..

I am 28, have been happily married for eight years and we have four children. We built a house that was finished a few months ago, about 40 miles from where my parents live. We expect them here every Sunday.

My father is a pleasure and gives the children a great deal of attention, but my mother can't sit down for five minutes. She is either rearranging the cabinets, vacuuming, polishing the furniture or tidying up a closet. I am a good housekeeper and don't need any help. I've mentioned my feelings to her but to no avail. Meanwhile my husband becomes more irritated by the minute. He interprets her activities as a slam against my housekeeping. I want my mother to be a guest in our home, relax and enjoy her grandchildren.

Any suggestions--- Neat Enough For Us

Dear Neat: Your mother's non- stop vacuuming, polishing and tidying up has nothing to do with your housekeeping. It is a manifestation of her discomfort, her inability to be a part of the family. These activities are an excuse to isolate herself. Once you and your husband understand this, YOU will be able to relax and let Mrs. Clean do her own thing.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married three weeks. We just had our first big fight. We've agreed to let you be the referee and your decision will be final.

Seven days after we returned from our honeymoon Ben started to read the newspaper at the breakfast table. I told him I consider this an insult and I asked him to stop. Ben says it's a lifelong habit and I have no right to make such a demand. He also claims he is not much of a morning communicator and it is better for our relationship if I try not to force him to be chatty. I say, now that he's a married man, he should be mature enough to drop his bachelor- type habits. What do you say?--- Betty

Dear Betty: I say now that you're a married woman, you should be mature enough to leave him alone. Some people are not morning communicators and for them the newspaper can be a blessing.

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." Send a long, self- addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 35c in coin to this newspaper.

A child's mistake must be his own

By SHAREN K. HUNT
HOME ECONOMIST

This is a review of an article by Dr. Bruno Bettelheim in "Marriage Means Encounter".

Children always try to buffalo parents. Most generations didn't let themselves be buffaloed, but now, parents seem more insecure. This is especially so, when children accuse, "You're trying to run my life."

Dr. Bettelheim believes parents show good judgment when they enforce guidelines for their children's behavior. They need the right mixture of their own choices and being protected against making the wrong choices. Children should be permitted to chose, only when, if they do make wrong choices, the consequences won't be terribly destructive or harmful to themselves or others. But if they do choose, then the full consequences should be felt so they may learn for the future.

For example, parents need to stand by if a youngster gets arrested for some sort of violation, but should not run interference with him with authorities, so that he feels the results.

Another example is giving one the right to choose to go on to college or not, or to quit after one year. This is a meaningful choice and one that also can be changed. You can return to college after a year's absence. You can go later, so the wrong choice won't have disastrous effects.

But when the outcome of a youngster's choice are far-reaching and irreversible, appropriate maturity and knowledge of the world is needed, so we can't let a 12-year- old decide to quit school.

Some feel youth are given too many choices and decisions too early in life. For example, the episode of the fifth graders who were advised by their teacher to make up their own minds which drugs to use and which ones not to. Or the 13- year-old who demanded that if she couldn't run her own life, she would run away. Her parents, who felt they shouldn't interfere and let her decide for herself, said nothing. She left, waited for them to come after her and concluded, they didn't care enough.

She has been "given the freedom to decide and arrang her own life? Running her own life was beyond her ability and led to unfortunate consequences and a feeling that she was totally incompetent and unable to make things turn out right.

Because children often protest and object to this "checking up", many parents feel it is wrong and don't do it. The youth then may come to think they don't care or that he should be able to do it all by himself. But if he can't do what he feels parents expect, then his trust in himself is undermined.

The problem (or maybe challenge) is deciding which choices the child can safely make and learn from, and which we should not let him make because of immaturity, because we feel, that given his immaturity, he'll make wrong choices and come to grief.

It's one thing to let them decide on things that aren't harmful, it's something else to project him into anxiety by asking him to make decisions that no 12, 13, or 14- year- old should be asked to make.

Girl Scouts present portrait

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Girl Scouts presented a portrait of Juliette Low to the National Portrait Gallery at Smithsonian Institution March 28, in Washington, D.C.

A reception honoring Girl Scout officers and executives followed in the gallery. Around 350 special guests attended, including many senators and congressmen. Fifty Girl Scouts in uniform represented each of the nation's 50 states at the event.

The portrait was painted by the noted English artist, Edward Hughes, who was widely known before the turn of the century as "a painter of beautiful women and children." Mrs. Low's portrait was done in England around 1887, soon after her marriage to William Low.

Until its presentation to the National Portrait Gallery, the painting has hung in the south drawing room of Mrs. Low's birthplace. An exact replica now hangs there.

SeMo U. choir plans concerts

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The Southeast Missouri State University choir will present concerts in Jackson, Sikeston and Cape Girardeau late this month and early next month.

Doyle Dumas, director of the choir, said the 42-member group will perform today at the Presbyterian church in Jackson, Sunday at First United Methodist Church in Sikeston and on May 10 in the auditorium of Academic Hall o the Southeast Missouri State campus.

All three concerts will begin at 8 p.m.

Dumas, associate professor of music at the university, said the choir would perform essentially the same program it will present on its tour of Europe from May 20 to June 4.

Sacred for the most part, the choir's numbers will range from a Gregorian chant through the 15th and 16th centuries up to the present day. The longest piece will be a mass by Ralph Vaughn Williams which will feature four soloists.

They are Patti Fisher, soprano, of Ames, Iowa; Sally Hilpert, alto, of Cape Girardeau; Steve Meier, tenor, of Jackson; and Brennan Colyer, baritone, of Jackson.

Most of the music will be designed for cathedrals, Duma said, "since we will be singing in a lot of the old cathedrals on our tour of Europe."

The director added, "We will be doing some American folk songs -- something that will give our European audiences an idea of what is typically American."

The tour of Europe will take the Southeast Missouri State choir to Holland, Germany, Austria, France and Switzerland. The students will present concerts about every other day during their two-week visit.

Doctor Develops Home Treatment that

RINSES AWAY BLACKHEADS
HELPS DRY UP ACNE-PIMPLES . . .

QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE 15 MINUTE HOME TREATMENT MUST SHOW IMMEDIATE IMPROVEMENT OR — YOUR MONEY BACK!

A leading New York Doctor, working with a cosmetic laboratory, has developed a simple home treatment that rinses away blackheads, helps dry up acne pimples, and shrinks enlarged pores. The name of this medicated product is QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE. Apply this delightfully Mint-Scented Cream and within 2 or 3 minutes an absorbing agent called Argilla dries and turns this cream into a plastic-like masque. You will now feel as though hundreds of "tiny fingers" are kneading the skin, loosening pore-caked dirt, blackheads, and other foreign impurities. As it firms and hardens, its suction action draws out waste matter trom the pores. . . In 15 minutes you simply rinse the masque away with lukewarm water which dissolves it immediately. When you wipe your face, you can see that blackheads and other pore "filler" actually come off on your wash cloth. And your skin feels clean . . . really clean . . . refreshed, smooth like velvet. Women 35 and over will enjoy the skin tightening experience as the masque relaxes tired facial muscles and eases tension lines on face and throat. If you suffer the agony of blackheads, acne-pimples, and enlarged pores, give yourself this home treatment and see the breath-taking results. Ask for it by name, QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE.

Cards use big inning

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "Everybody's been saying we needed the big inning," Red Schoendienst said optimistically. "Maybe this was it."

Schoendienst's St. Louis Cardinals, threatening to become baseball's worst team, Sunday arose to smite prospectively the best, the San Francisco Giants, 8-3.

As important as the victory, the Cards' third in 18 games, was a six-run explosion in the sixth inning featuring five hits, a walk, a sacrifice fly and a crucial Giants miscue.

"Mostly it's been a matter of our swinging at bad pitches," noted Schoendienst, whose team was hitting .213 and is averaging three runs a game.

"It's really not so much bad pitches but pitches the other team has wanted us to hit," he added. "We've been tight. I just hope we turned the corner."

The Cardinals, shut out in two straight previous games, trailed Juan Marichal, 4-2, and the Giants by 3-2 before arising Sunday much like a sports world's Lazarus.

U.S. takes Russians

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Uncle Sam appears to have built a truly formidable national basketball team this year after the disappointment of 1972, yet Coach Bob Cousy says his squad must be tougher to continue whipping the Russians.

The international series continues here tonight following Sunday's 83-65 victory for the United States, a triumph at the Forum in Inglewood, Calif., which was the first meeting between the nations since the Olympic finale at Munich.

The Russians won that time 51-50 in the super-controversial ending where the U.S. claimed the USSR was given three seconds of additional time after the game ended.

Tonight there was doubt that Bill Walton, UCLA's national player of the year for both 1971 and 1972, could play because of an injury, but he wants to try because San Diego is his hometown.

Walton suffered strained ligaments in his left knee when he was knocked down near the end of the first half.

Although the revenge factor has been soft pedaled, this game was rough throughout, and the Russians had absolutely nothing to say after it was over.

Vladimir Khudoleev, leader of the visiting delegation, came to the dressing room door to tell newsmen:

"We lost the game and there is no need to comment further."

"I think the kids underestimated them a little bit. But I certainly didn't. We've got to execute better. We've got to be more physical.

"It's mayhem out there, especially under the basket. The international game is very, very physical, especially inside."

The USA and USSR play a six-game series this time from coast to coast.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Ancient Title, $4.20, barely held off a surging Groshawk to score by a head in the $55,050 Inglewood Stakes at Hollywood Park.

Frazier sounds warning

BOSTON (AP) — The New York Knicks trained their sights on the Los Angeles Lakers today with Old Pro Walt Frazier sounding the general warning to the West Coast: "They wanted us, now they've got us."

Frazier and his New York teammates were over-flowing with confidence Sunday after whipping the Boston Celtics 9478 and advancing to the National Basketball Association's championship round.

After a slow start, with Frazier scoring only two points in the first period, the Knicks came on strong to defeat the Celtics in the seventh and deciding game of the Eastern playoff final. Defense was the key, with the Knicks holding the big advantage.

"Our defense picked them up right away, that was the key," Frazier said after finishing with 25 points. "The Celtics were playing with a two-man offense, Dave Cowens and Jo Jo White, and you can only play so long with that."

Then the All-Star backcourt sharp-shooter recalled reading that the Lakers had rooted for a New York victory, giving Los Angeles the home court advantage in the best-of-seven championship series opening in California Tuesday night.

"We were 2-2 with them this year," Holzman said. "However, the last game we played at Los Angeles was a game that really meant something— and we won. We did some things in that game that we can take into the series coming up."

The Knicks, who trailed 22-19 after the first period, came alive in the second quarter after young Dean Meminger came off the bench to replace ailing Earl Monroe. New York hustled to a 45-40 halftime lead and then blew out the Celtics in the final two periods.

"We knew we had to play physical and aggressive from the start, and we did," Meminger said. "In the last couple of games, we played well enough, but weren't physical enough and lost."

Cowens scored 24 points and White contributed 22, but the Knicks shut off other Boston shooters. The Celtics' 78 points represented the fewest by any New York opponent this season.

"New York played great and won it," Boston Coach Tommy Heinsohn said.

Controversy in ABA

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky Colonels officials conferred today to decide whether to file an official protest of Saturday's 111-107 overtime loss to the Indiana Pacers in the final round of the American Basketball Association playoffs

Meanwhile, the second game in the best-of-7 series will be played tonight in Louisville.

The Colonels announced they were playing Saturday's game under protest in the third period after referee Norm Drucker whistled center Artis Gilmore for a three-second lane violation. On the play, Gilmore took a pass on an in-bounds play and put the ball in the basket.

"We have viewed the game on our video tape and it is clear that no three-second violation occurred," president-general manager Mike Storen said Sunday.

"The problem is that the official has the perogative of making the determination of the expiration of the time. And that supersedes the mechanical devices," he said.

An official protest with the league office must be filed within 48 hours along with $500.

Mizzou's M&M star

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Missouri football Coach Al Onofrio says he is pleased "withour attitude and the way we progressed" during spring practice.

Onofrio made the statement after the Golds had defeated the Blacks 26-14 Saturday in the Tigers' annual spring game. The Golds, down 14-6 at the half, staged a stirring comeback with a 20-point third quarter and the Bengals displayed some brilliant runners in Bill Marx and Leroy Moss and the passing of Steve Pisarkiewicz and Ray Smith.

Marx gained 120 yards on 20 carries and Moss 98 yards on 27 thrusts. Pisarkiewicz, a freshman, completed seven of 22 passes for 98 yards, including a 37-yarder to Ted Beckett for a touchdown for the Golds.

Greg Hill's extra point after the Beckett touchdown gave the Golds a 19-14 lead they never lost. Moss, who scored two touchdowns for the Golds, made six points on a 98-yard kickoff return and six more on a one-yard run. Ricky Cook made the other Gold touchdown on a three-yard burst.

The Blacks struck for touchdowns twice before the Golds got started. Tom Mulkey scored first on a five-yard pass reception of a Smith toss. Smith scored on a five-yard run.

The Tigers played without three of their best backs, quarterback John Cherry and Tommy Reamon and Ray Bybee, all sidelined with injuries.

"For a spring game, I was pleased with the hitting out there," Onofrio said. "It's good to see a team jump out into a 14-0 lead, and it's good to watch a team, if it's yours, come back to go ahead.

"You're never at the level where you want to be at this time of year. Both quarterbacks had a fine day. Smith had his in the first half, and Pisarkiewicz had his in the second half. For the amount of work they have had, they performed fairly well."

Pirates struggle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

You really have to hand it to the Los Angeles Dodgers. The Pittsburgh Pirates did Sunday.

"We aren't playing well," admitted Pittsburgh Manager Bill Virdon in an obvious understatement after his floundering Pirates lost a doubleheader for their fifth straight setback.

"It's too early to worry about the standings," said Virdon after the three-time National League East champions dropped a 9-8 decision in 13 innings in the first game and 2-1 in the second.

The Pirates, who opened as one of the hottest teams in baseball with an 8-1 record, dropped to third place at 8-6, one game off the pace of the East-leading New York Mets.

It isn't Panicsville yet, though, said Virdon.

"There's no reason to panic," said the Pirate manager. "I think we'll eventually play well."

In the other National League games Sunday, the Chicago Cubs walloped the San Diego Padres 10-4; the St. Louis Cardinals trimmed the San Francisco Giants 8-3; the New York Mets beat the Atlanta Braves 10; the Cincinnati Reds stopped the Philadelphia Phillies 8-0 and the Houston Astros defeated the Montreal Expos 4-3.

In the American League, the New York Yankees took a doubleheader from the Minnesota Twins 6-3 and 11-1; the Chicago White Sox downed the Boston Red Sox 5-0; the Detroit Tigers turned back the Kansas City Royals 6-1; the Oakland A's beat the Baltimore Orioles 4-3; the Cleveland Indians nipped the California Angels 3-2 and the Texas Rangers edged the Milwaukee Brewers 2-1.

One of the Pittsburgh mistakes Sunday was a fat pitch by reliever Ramon Hernandez. He laid it down the middle for Tom Paciorek and the Dodger youngster drilled it for a double to knock in the winning run in the 13th inning of the four-hour opener.

Another was an error by first baseman Bob Robertson allowed the Dodgers to score their first run in the nightcap and Willie Davis drove in the deciding run with a triple.

Pinch-hitter Paul Popovich delivered a two-run single in a four-run, sixth-inning flurry as Chicago downed San Diego. The win was the second of the year for Ferguson Jenkins.

Lou Brock's bases-loaded triple following a two-out error by San Francisco third baseman Ed Goodson capped a sixrun rally in the sixth inning to pull St. Louis past the Giants.

The Cardinals are currently buried in the NL East cellar with a 3-15 record.

White Sox move into first place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Despite a pair of weekend victories, the Chicago White Sox don't care much for Fenway Park...and lately it hasn't been home, sweet, home for the Boston Red Sox, either.

"I don't like this park," Dick Allen said Sunday after swatting a home run into the center field bleachers during Chicago's 5-0 trimming of the Red Sox.

"I don't like this park; I really don't," echoed Bill Melton, who found the bleachers with a two-run homer in the third inning after Allen drove in the White Sox' first run with a groundout.

"This team just needs a break," said Boston Manager Eddie Kasko, whose club has dropped seven of its last eight Fenway frolics and dropped into last place in the American League East.

Elsewhere in the AL, Oakland edged Baltimore 4-3, the New York Yankees took a doubleheader from Minnesota 6-3 and 11-1, Detroit whipped Kansas City 6-1, Texas downed Milwaukee 2-1 and Cleveland nipped California 3-2.

In the National League, Los Angeles took two from Pittsburgh 9-8 in 13 innings and 2-1, St. Louis trounced San Francisco 8-3, New York shaded Atlanta 1-0, Chicago lathered San Diego 10-4, Cincinnati drubbed Philadelphia 8-0 and Houston edged Montreal 4-3.

Explaining his dislike for Fenway Park, Melton said: "It's the way they pitch to you, going for the corners, either away or inside. If it's inside, you have to pull the ball, but you know it's probably a bad pitch."

The last four outings have been good to the White Sox, who have won seven of eight road games and pushed past Kansas City into first place in the AL West.

Oakland's Catfish Hunter, a 21-game winner last year, finally posted his first 1973 triumph, although he needed help from Rollie Fingers in the ninth, when Baltimore scored all its runs on a homer by Bobby Grich and Brooks Robinson's two-run single.

The Yankees continued their new-found stickwork, cracking out 23 hits in sweeping the Twins. The barrage included four singles, a double and five runs batted in by slump-ridden Ron Blomberg and a home run and three singles by Graig Nettles. Mel Stottlemyre scattered seven hits in the opener and Fritz Peterson and Lindy McDaniel did the same in the nightcap.

Detroit's Joe Coleman scattered eight Kansas City hits in joining Chicago's Wilbur Wood as the majors' first five-game winners and battery-mate Duke Sims hit a two-run homer. It was only Kansas City's second loss in nine road games but sufficed to drop the Royals out of the lead in the West Division. They trail the White Sox by .048 percentage points.

Run-scoring singles by Dave Nelson and Toby Harrah with two out in the ninth inning lifted Texas over Milwaukee and prevented the Brewers from moving into first place in the East.

Cleveland tied California on an eighth-inning homer by rookie Charlie Spikes, his sixth, and won on a circuit by George Hendrick in the ninth off winless Clyde Wright, 0-4.

Gunter predicts gasoline rationing to American drivers

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Gasoline rationing for individual American drivers was predicted here Sunday by Rep. William Gunter, D-Fla., a member of the House Subcommittee on Energy.

Gunter told some 400 members of the Missouri's 6th District Congressional Club the energy crisis could have been foreseen and prevented but "we have been blind to this potential problem and now it has hit us like a sledgehammer."

"I believe we will see rationing by the industries themselves this year," Gunter said. "Toward the end of this year the major oil companies will limit the number of gallons of gasoline sold to a customer at one time."

Oil production in the continental United States has peaked, the Florida Democrat said, and will decline in the future.

He noted that ecological dangers and technical problems have limited nuclear power sources as a potential solution and the U.S. should not count on Middle East imports because of the unstable political situation in that part of the world.

"Our committee has been shown that even if the potential new sources of oil, such as offshore drilling and the Alaska pipeline, are exploited they will not be enough to meet potential needs if we continue at the present rate of consumption," Gunter said.

He pointed out that the U.S., with only 6 per cent of the world population, uses 33 per cent of the world's energy. "Some habit-changing and education are in order for the American people," he added.

Gunter suggested the American conservation effort should include use of smaller cars consuming less gas, expansion of mass transit systems and cutbacks in the use of household electrical appliances.

He also proposed stepping up research and development efforts to find viable alternative sources of energy.

Before federal controls or stricter regulations are imposed, Gunter said, Congress should seek voluntary controls from industry on energy consumption.

AAUP votes to censure Missouri U procedures

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The American Association of University Professors has voted to censure the University of Missouri for action the school took against several professors who participated in campus demonstration in the Spring of 1970.

The AAUP, holding its annual meeting in St. Louis this past weekend, also voted to censur Southern Illinois UniversityCarbondale and eight other schools for their failures to correct conditions that "are seriously violative of the association's principles of academic freedom and tenure."

The Missouri school received censure for its actions in disciplining eight professors at the Columbia campus for their parts in activities protesting the U.S. invasion into Cambodia and the violence against students at Kent State University and Jackson State College.

One of the eight professors was denied tenure, another was threatened with discharge, and the others docked pay for dismissing classes so students could participate in antiwar activities.

Fane said he and the board believed the censure was "neither meaningful nor just" because of new procedures developed by the school.

SIU was cited for the refusal of the school's board of trustees to grant tenure to a faculty member on two occasions, even though the professor on one occasion had been recommended for tenure by his department and the president of the university. The AAUP report also pointed out the failure of the school's new president to provide further opportunity for review of the case.

The AAUP also voted to censure McKendree College in Lebanaon, Ill., Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y., Colorado School of Mines in Golden, Colo., Marshall University in Huntington, W.Va., Ohio State University in Columbus, Rider College at Trenton, N.J., Queensborough Community College in New York City, East Tennessee State University in Johnston City and West Chester State College in West Chester, Pa.

In another action the AAUP voted to urge president Richard Nixon to grant amnesty to the American youths who conscientiously resisted or refused to participate in the Vietnam War.

"It is now more urgent than ever to heal the wounds of war and overcome the deep divisions which the war has engineered," the membership of the AAUP said in a statement released Sunday.

"With the spirit of reconciliation hopefully emerging in our foreign policy, it is only just that a like reconciliation be effected among our own people," the association said.

In 1935 Gene Sarazen won the 1935 Masters golf title in a 36-hole playoff against the late Craig Wood. Sarazen won by five strokes.

Elisha Johnson has recently sold two good farms near Sikeston and we understand both of them went at prices below their real worth. One farm of 228 acres, known as the E. L. Richards farm and located half a mile east of Miner, was sold to Dr. Malcolm. The price paid for this farm was $100. Dr. Malcolm will get possession July 1st and his son, Wade, will cultivate it. The other farm of 148 acres is located near Tanner School house and was brought by G.B. Greer. It commanded a higher price per acre than the one near Miner.

Parker Adams of Sikeston has been awarded his letter in track at Central College, Fayette, Mo. Last fall he won his letter in football. He has now won his second letter during his freshman year at college, an unusual feat.

Tuesday the contract for building a new cotton gin for the Sikeston Gin Co., was awarded to Frank Heisler. He expects to begin work of construction at once.

Excavation on the basement for Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Anderson's new home on North Kingshighway was begun Monday. This will be a modern home of stucco exterior and will cost about $7,500. Plans for this residence were drawn by A.F. Lindsay.

Heavy equipment at work

Price controls may end tonight

If that authority is to be renewed for one year, both houses must act on the controls bill. But the Senate-floor route has been blocked by maneuvering over a postcard- voter- registration bill.

A minority of Southern and conservative senators has stalled the registration bill, sponsored by Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo. A vote to close off debate on the registration bill was set for this afternoon.

However, McGee, according to aides, will not budge from his position of holding off wage- price action until he gets a final vote on his measure. He had blocked action of the controls bill when Congress recessed 10 days ago.

Meanwhile, there was apprehension over what might happen if President Nixon's largely voluntary Phase 3 controls are allowed to lapse.

"In just one day prices could go up and they would be very, very difficult to roll back," says Sen. Willaim Proxmire, D-Wis.

But other congressmen suggested that meat prices — which cannot exceed a ceiling ordered by Nixon — could be rolled back if raised, should presidential control authority expire. Mandatory controls also affect the food, construction and health- care industries.

Republicans dislike several Senate wage- price amendments that survived the House- Senate conference called to reconcile the different versions of the bill. These amendments would:

—Require big corporations to make public their reasons for raising prices under certain conditions.

—Give the president the power to allocate fuels throughout the nation and among independent and major oil companies.

Damage repaired

Administration plans trade

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Office of Administration plans to trade in a sixpassenger plane for two smaller planes to transport Missouri state officials, it was learned today.

The cost of the new planes will be greater than the value of the 1965 Grand Commander to be traded in, said George Guersey, assistant to Robert L. James, aide to Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

An audit by the state auditor last week showed the Commander, owned by the highway patrol, is used for non-patrol purposes 73 per cent of the time.

The Commander costs $72.86 an hour to operate, compared with $25 per hour for a smaller replacement proposed by the highway patrol, which has budgeted $75,000 for the new plane.

The governor's office has one plane, a 1968 Merlin turbo-prop purchased in 1969 for $455,000, used primarily to transport the governor.

Investigation is continuing.

The accident occurred when a car driven by John Edward Isom, 21, of 807 N. Springg in Cape Girardeau failed to stop at a stop sign, skidded across the road and struck a dirt embankment.

Isom received face cuts; Susan Wellman, 18, of Festus, face cuts and leg bruises; Thomas Brennan, 21, of Webster Groves, cuts; and Joseph Torrisi, 19, of St. Louis, possible chest injury. All were taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

A motorcycle accident at 6:45 p.m. Saturday on Route CC five miles south of Arcadia resulted in injuries to a passenger, Barbara Whelehon, 39, of Ironton.

The accident occurred when the tire of a motorcycle driven by Oscar Franklin Simmons, 19, of Iron Mountain went flat and the cycle ran off the road.

"We're at almost exactly the same stage now that we were two weeks ago," said the Corps' Ken Long referring to the first crest of the spring floods. "Everyone was going to take the sandbags down, sweep up and live happily ever after. It's going to take several days to get back to flood stage and we can't anticipate that far ahead."

The town of Portage des Sioux, on the Mississippi about 15 miles north of St. Charles, was completely cut off by the floodwaters of the Mississippi and Missouri after a major St. Charles County levee was topped last week.

Perishables were being flown into the town of about 500 daily by Army helicopter. About 200 residents have been evacuated since the city wqs isolated last week.

"We know now why the Indians gave this away," said Mayor Vincent Eilers as he surveyed his water-logged city Sunday. The local tavern was reportedly prepared for a long siege, having brought in 186 cases of beer just before the floodwaters cut the city off.

Farther south on the Mississippi, residents of McClure, Ill., across from Cape Girardeau, were still without telephone service, and officials said the only communication outside the town was through a police radio hooked up to the Coast Guard Communications Center in Cape Girardeau.

The Coast Guard reported that a Florissant, Mo., man was rescued from the Mississippi Sunday afternoon after his pontoon boat was seen floating out of control about two miles south of the Jefferson Barracks Bridge in south St. Louis County.

Rapist eludes officers

BENTON — An extensive car search Saturday night failed to turn up a suspect wanted for the rape of a Southeast Missouri State University coed near Benton about 8 p.m. Saturday.

The girl and her escort, a male student at University of Missouri- Rolla, both 19, were not identified by police.

The Scott County sheriff's office said the car in which the two were riding overheated three miles north of Benton on Interstate 55. They caught a ride to Benton from a passing motorist, picked up water at a service station and were taken back to the car by the same motorist. The two were en route to Sikeston to attend a sorority party.

The girl got into the car, according to sheriff's deputies, while the boy poured the water into the radiator.

At that point, a black male, described as being 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighing 150 pounds with a large Afro haircut appeared with a gun and demanded their money.

When the two told him they had only one dollar between them, the man locked the boy in the trunk of the car and took the girl to a ditch beside the road and raped her. The man told the girl to wait 25 minutes before going for help, or he'd kill them.

A search by 15 people failed to turn up the suspect. The sheriff's department is continuing the investigation.

Ueltzen is jailed; shot at patrolman

Jerry Wayne Ueltzen, 19, of St. Louis is in city jail today charged with assault with a deadly weapon and auto theft as a result of taking a shot at Ronald Ryan of the highway patrol Saturday night.

According to the patrol, Trooper Ryan stopped a car on Interstate 55 just north of Matthews at 10:50 p.m. Saturday night. When he approached the car, Ueltzen stuck a 410 gauge shotgun out the car window. Ryan grabbed the barrel of the gun and a shot went off, passing between Ryan's arm and his side. He was not injured.

Also in city jail is Randell Ellis May, 18, of St. Louis on charges of car theft. May was a passenger in the car.

Man arrested on firearms charge

Police arrested Thurman Glendon Hamby of 1313 Page St. Dexter, Friday for selling firearms without a permit at the Farmers Market on the corner of Branum Street and West Malone Avenue.

Detectives Leonard Campbell and Dan Hinton were called to the market by an auxiliary policeman who discovered Hamby attempting to sell a revolver and crossbow without a permit. The two detectives purchased the weapons, then arrested Hamby.

Campbell and Hinton confiscated a .357 magnum revolver, a belt and holster, 12 rounds of ammunition and a crossbow and arrow.

One killed, 17 hurt in 7 SeMo accidents

One person was killed and 17 were injured over the weekend in seven area traffic accidents, according to the highway patrol.

Alfred Franklin Abbot, 29, of Bloomfield Route One died at 4:10 p.m. Sunday six miles northwest of Bloomfield when his car, traveling at excessive speed, ran through the junction of Routes BB and K into a field and overturned.

He was pronounced dead on the scene and the body was taken to Rainey Funeral Home in Dexter where arrangements are incomplete.

Injured were Sylvia Abbott, 50, of Bloomfield Route One, body cuts; Ruthie Mae Davis, 9, of Bloomfield, scalp cuts and a broken left leg; Donna Davis, 10, of Bloomfield, cuts; Carl Cooper, 18, of Bloomfield, back injuries; and Claudia Cooper, 20, of Bloomfield, body bruises. All were taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital.

Four persons were injured at 4:15 p.m. Sunday on Route T seven miles north of Highway 60 in Butler County.

The accident occurred when a southbound car driven by Edward Lee Russell, 19, of Poplar Bluff attempted to pass traffic on a hill. A station wagon driven north by Glen Harold Lee, 39, of Poplar Bluff, was forced onto the shoulder to avoid the Russell auto and Russell's auto struck the station wagon in the side.

Lee suffered minor cuts and bruises and two passengers in his car were also injured.

Ruth Majka, 46, of Chaffee received minor cuts and Audie Majka, 14, of Chaffee suffered minor burises and scratches.

In Russell's auto, Levinia Losh, 20, of Qulin received minor cuts and bruises.

Larry Wayne Seabaugh, 21, of Leopold suffered a broken arm and cuts at 10:30 p.m. Sunday on Route

Mock disaster planned

A mock disaster will take place in the near future in Sikeston. The date, time and place are being kept a secret to make the drill more realistic for civil defense, law enforcement, emergency and medical groups participating in the drill.

Residents are cautioned not to be alarmed if one of these days sirens start screeching and police cars, ambulances and fire department vehicles start rushing through the streets of Sikeston.

The disaster will include victims portraying various injuries and referees to judge the efficiency of the drill. A mock disaster must be conducted periodically for Missouri Delta Community Hospital to keep its accredidation.

Night vigil on the levee

Army Corps of Engineers personnel and equipment operators wait at 2 a.m. today for more truckloads of rock to arrive for stabilizing the Scott County levee. Windblown waves had eaten away a portion of the levee six miles south of Commerce. Work on the levee continued round- the- clock as construction crews tried to outrace the rising flood waters. Nixon shakes up his White House staff

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today announced the resignations of Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst and top White House aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman in a shakeup stemming from the Watergate affair.

He fired White House counsel John Dean III.

Nixon named Secretary of Defense Elliot Richardson to become acting attorney general and overseer of all federal investigations of the Watergate conspiracy.

After making these announcements, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon has asked for nationwide radio and television time to talk to the nation on the Watergate case at 9 p.m. EDT.

Nixon said in a statement that Kleindienst "asked to be relieved as attorney general because he felt that he could not appropriately continue as head of the Justice Department now that it appears its investigation of the Watergate and related cases may implicate individuals with whom he has had a close personal and professional association."

Saying he would nominate Richardson as attorney general, Nixon said that pending Senate action to confirm his choice, "I have asked him to involve himself immediately in the investigative process surrounding the Watergate matter."

He went on:

"As attorney general, Mr. Richardson will assume full responsibility and authority for coordinating all federal agencies in uncovering the whole truth about this and recommending appropriate changes in the law to prevent future campaign abuses of the sort recently uncovered. He will have total support from me in getting this job done."

The Watergate case stemmed from the break-in and bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Watergate complex here last summer. It has widened into broader charges of political espionage.

The President drew a distinction in describing the resignations of Ehrlichman and Haldeman—"two of my closest friends and trusted assistants in the White House"—and that of White House counsel Dean.

Nixon said he had "today requested and accepted" Dean's resignation but made no reference to having forced the departure of Ehrlichman and Haldeman. In fact his statement suggested they had initiated the step. He said:

"I know that their decision to resign was difficult; my decision to accept it was difficult; but I respect and appreciate the attitude that led them to it."

Effective immediately, Nixon said, special consultant Leonard Garment will "take on additional duties as counsel to the President and will continue acting in this capacity until a permanent successor to Mr. Dean is named."

The chief executive said Garment "will represent the White House in all matters relating to the Watergate investigation and will report directly to me."

Nixon to go on television

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon will address the nation via radio and television tonight, starting at 9 p.m. EDT, concerning the Watergate situation, NBC, CBS and ABC spokesmen said today.

Network spokesmen said there were indications the President would speak about 20 minutes.

E. Prairie OKs bid on school

EAST PRAIRIE-- The R-2 School District board of education has accepted the low bid of $38,599 from McTigue Construction Co. of East Prairie for construction of an addition to the kindergarten building at the R.A. Doyle school site. Construction is scheduled to be completed by the beginning of the fall term.

Bien Construction Co. of Dudley was the only other bidder on the project with a bid of $44,000.

Contracts for three new teachers in the high school and one in the elementary music department were approved. Naeman Townsend will be the driver's education instructor, head baseball coach and assistant basketball coach in the high school. Daniel Ott has been employed as social studies teacher and assistant football and track coach at the high school. Jane Young will be girls physical education instructor at the high school. Mrs. Iris McElrath has been employed as elementary music teacher.

The board accepted the resignation of Buck Cantwell, high school vocal instructor, and Sheila Hellwegg and Brenda Bone, elementary teachers.

Mrs. Nancy Bird, former junior high vocal instructor, has been assigned to the high school vocal department and Mrs. Judy Hays, former elementary music instructor, has been assigned to the junior high position.

Joe Watson was appointed treasurer of the R-2 district, replacing the late Ed Moss.

River cresting; record levels set

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Major sandbagging efforts on levees along the Mississippi River halted at dusk Sunday for the first time in days as the mighty river began "flattening out" along southeastern Missouri.

The National Weather Service said the river would crest at most points in the southern part of the state late Sunday or today while continuing to fall slowly at St. Louis and points to the north.

The river stood at 43 feet late Sunday at St. Louis after hitting a record crest of 43.3 feet late Saturday, 13.3 feet above flood stage and breaking the previous record of 42 feet set in 1785.

The weather service said "without appreciable rainfall" the river will drop below flood levels at Hannibal, Mo., on May 9 and St. Louis on May 14.

"The critical flooding on the River des Peres, Cuivre and Meramec rivers in the St. Louis and St. Charles areas will respond to the slow recession on the Mississippi," the weather service said.

The Missouri River was reported falling rapidly in the central part of the state, dropping below the 23-foot flood stage at Jeffeeson City with a reading of 22.9 feet Sunday.

"Things are pretty stable at this time," said Garry Ketts from the Corps of Engineers St. Louis Flood Control Center. "But the threat always does exist when the river is this high.."

Ketts said the levees along the lower reaches of the Mississippi were being patroled around the clock and weak spots were being reinforced, but major work on the system has been stopped during the night.

On the Illinois River near Beardstown, Ill., however, some 200 National Guardsmen worked into the night Sunday to build up the McGee Levee, which protects several thousand acres of farmland, Ketts said. The Illinois is expected to crest there Tuesday at 27.2 feet, 13.2 feet above flood stage.

A teen-age girl from St. Marys, Mo., became the tenth victim of the flooding when she died Sunday at a St. Louis County hospital from injuries she received Friday while working as a volunteer in the Ste. Genevieve, Mo., area.

Donna Brewster, 14, was working on a sand truck, authorities said, when she fell from the truck. Nine other persons have drowned in Missouri and western Illinois since the renewed flooding began more than a week ago.

Even though the rivers have started to slowly recede, the weather service said "it will be one to two weeks or so before the water" on both the Missouri and Mississippi recedes enough for some

CITIZEN PARTICIPATION IN THE BICENTENNIAL

A classic nightmare is when one dreams that one is running faster and faster, yet not moving a step forward, and the dreamer is helpless to do anything about it. So it has seemed to Americans anxious for the American Revolution Bicentennial to show some signs it will actually happen.

During seven long years the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission has produced elaborate plans -- on paper -- but nothing significant has happened.

Now, the Nixon Administration has initiated a new proposal. Abolish the Commission and create a Bicentennial Administrator. Shelve the 50- person public Commission where conflicts of view neutralize action. Instead, let the Administrator act freely within a limited sphere, but let him act.

But, no sooner had the Administration bill gone through a House Judiciary Subcommittee hearing, than a flurry of amendments were proposed and a substitue bill was introduced. It now seems that unless there is an overwhelming demand for action from the public we may see snow again before the issue is resolved by competing branches of the Federal Government.

There may be one saving grace; namely, the individual initiative and voluntary action for which Americans once were world renown. One citizen action expert in Northern Virginia is getting the entire northern section of the Old Dominion organized for Bicentennial action. Already the citizens group has held its first commemoration. Appropriately, they marked the 200th anniversary of Virginia's creation of the first Provinicial Committee of Correspondence with a flurry of letters to mayors of the 13 original colonies and to American Legion Departments all over the nation, urging Bicentennial action now.

"The American Revolution was a citizens movement," say the citizen involvement authority, Donald L. Miller, of Alexandria. "It's appropriate that citizens start now to observe the real Revolution, the radical changes in principles, opinion, sentiments and affections of the people which came in the years preceding the Declaration of Independence and the outbreak of the fighting."

Hal Boyle

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — I agreed to stand by him in sickness and in health—but nobody said anything about high cholesterol.

Though it wasn't spelled out in the marriage contract, when the doctor put my husband on a strict diet I became a chemist instead of a cook.

I may forget how to make sauce bearnaise, but I can remember the fat content and ratio of polyunsaturates to saturates of every edible from consomme to peanuts.

I no longer look at prices at the grocery — I look at labels. I am more delighted to find an item that contains the proper diglycerides and propylene glycol monostearates than I would be to find filet mignon at 73 cents a pound.

An otherwise likely candidate for our larder goes back on the shelf when my magnifying glass reveals that the forbidden hydrogenated vegetable oil lurks among such innocuous ingredients as ferric orthophosphate, isopropyl citrate, pyridoxine and lecithin.

Fortunately, the food industry knows which side its shortening-free bread is margerined on, and has come up with lookalikes for some of the items that are off limits in low cholesterol diets.

Cream, a definite no-no, has all sorts of stand-ins, from pale powders that come in jars to liquids that hang out in small cardboard cartons and try to emulate their fatty cousins in looks and coffee-lightening activities.

Since egg yolks are packed chock full of cholesterol milligrams, my husband's over-easy breakfast piece de resistance has been eliminated.

However, all has not been lost. A substitute egg, which resembles the real thing in every way except cholesterol content, has appeared on the market. Thaw it, shake it, scramble it and, according to my resident ex-gourmet, it tastes so much like the original that even a mother hen would cluck tenderly over it.

The whole business does complicate breakfast production though. While I guiltily fry my fat-streaked bacon and mistyeyed egg and pamper my shortening-laced bread with butter, with the other hand I am parsimoniously placing margerine on toast and swirling what passes for eggs in a Tefloncoated pan.

The crunch will come some day when I mistake the little cardboard carton the fake egg comes in for the little cardboard carton the fake cream comes in and my eating partner ends up with ersatz egg in his coffee.

Editor's Note: Hal Boyle is ill.

Being a powerful and great nation has its problems. For many years other nations had the idea Uncle Sam had unlimited resources and all they had to do was hollar real loud and we would give'em the moon.

A recent editorial in the Kansas City Star was entitled, "Is the Panama Canal Worth the Chronic U. S. Headache?" The editorial infers that if Panama wants the canal let'em have it -- it's not worth fighting for. The fact we have spent billions building up the canal and have many millions of dollars invested means nothing to intellectuals who somehow have the erroneous idea we can goof off billions and still maintain our way of life.

The fact we are rich nation is to the good and our whole outlook should be to preserve what we have and not give it away to other nations who are controlled by the Communists.

For the first time in many years, America has stiff competition and it will get worse. We have lost billions to Japan and West Germany and these countries have the know how and technical ability to improve their products and we can't compete with them labor-wise.

In the meantime, the U. S. is faced with serious inflation and how to control the upward spiral is a headache Nixon and Congress will have to face. If wages continue to increase everything you buy will aos cost more. It's a vicious circle and the end is not in sight. If regulations are too stiff it could cause a recession and nobody wants that to happen.

We're living in a time when decisions by the President and Congress could change our way of life overnight. All of us who classify ourselves as good Americans should realize that too remain free and enjoy the good life takes a little more than griping about the way our country is being governed. We have to do our part to make the system work and we're playing for high stakes.

J. PAUL'S TESTIMONIALS

Someone did a magnificent selling job when J. Paul Getty was persuaded to appear as the spokesman for E. F. Hutton & Company on TV commercials. He was paid $1 for his readings and will be seen this fall during network newscasts and sports programs. Now that the ice has been broken, we may expect to see other billionaires on the air such as Aristotle Onassis for the Parthenon Travel Agency, Howard Hughes for the Desert Inn in Las Vegas, and Joe Namath for the Newark YWCA.

NUCLEAR POWER PLANTS CALLED RADIONOTSOACTIVE

Good news for power - starved cities is contained in a recent report by the Environmental Research Group of Ann Arbor, Mich.

Nuclear power plants, now being built or operating in Lake Michigan, will not cause radioactivity to build up to hazardous levels in the water or invertebrates.

The study, sponsored by six electric utilities, was conducted on samples of phytoplankton, zooplankton, benthos, water, and sediment.

On several occasions recently, our Indian citizens have been put in the spotlight by news reports of agitation and violence conducted in their name.

Several years ago a violent group, claiming to act in the name of all Indians, took over Alcatraz Island in San Francisco Bay. Then came the seizure and occupation of the Bureau of Indian Affairs Building in Washington, ending in extensive vandalism which cost the taxpayers over a million dollars to repair. Wounded Knee, South Dakota, is the latest.

Support for the agitators comes from familiar quarters. Appearing at Wounded Knee was lawyer William Kunstler, who has been defense counsel for such farleft groups as the Students for a Democratic Society and W.E.B. DuBois Clubs and was sentenced for contempt of court in the "Chicago Seven" trial in 1970. Joining in support was admitted communist Angela Davis.

Legitimate elected spokesmen for our Indian citizens have denounced these troublemakers. When the Bureau of Indian Affairs was seized last year, Indians from the National Tribal Chairmen's Association, representing about three- quarters of the Indians in the United States, said of those involved: "These Indians must have been under the influence of drugs. No Indian in his right mind would do this." The Oglala Sioux Tribal Council, speaking for Indians on the reservation where Wounded Knee is located, passed a resolution calling for the militants to be ousted from the reservation as "undesirables." Indian citizens have some legitimate grievances, but their responsible leaders wisely ruled out violence in dealing with them. HLH

Mob's Terror Tax: $16 Billion Massive Annual Thievery Rockets Cost of Living

WASHINGTON-- Mafia-watchers know there is an organized underworld underground "criminal distribution system" which has a built- in terror- tax on rent, food, clothing, medicines, and the little baubles, radios, televisions and other ingredients of living.

Its about to be exposed by Nevada Sen. Alan Bible's placid- sounding Committee on Small Business. This title is semantic. The committee plans to rip open--- we hope--- one of the nation's biggest rackets--- the stealing business. Some $16 billion annually. Since what is stolen generally is turned into cash, there's a "middle man."

The "fence" we call him.

If the Senate committee probers', masked convicts', and crusading District Attorney's testimony is accurate, then "sitting on the fence" will be doubly semantic. The multi-million- dollar racket--- not all of it Mafiosi and much of it pouring through infiltrated legitimate business, banks and stock brokerages, airports, highways and docks --- will be smashed.

It's easy to sling figures around. But the $16 billion annual theft and hijacking total comes from the Department of Commerce. Much of this, I am told, is in the form of construction tools and equipment, light and sometimes very heavy--- by "the ton."

Here we get into the hundreds of millions of dollars in extra building costs. Candidly, no one has the exact total. But in New York City alone, the District Attorney's office reports $50 million in construction tools and machinery is stolen each year.

Furthermore, the loot is stolen on order.

That's right. On order. There are those who need equipment and want it cheap. They make their "contact." He gets to the "fence." The order is placed. The material is stolen. Then it is "fenced"--- sold on a commission basis or the "fence" buys the stuff outright and resells it.

In frustrated law enforcement headquarters, the word is that you can walk into any big city, place an order, and the equipment will be stolen, "fenced" and delivered. So, if the figure is $50 million yearly in New York, what does it total nationally? And who really pays for it in the end? The home builder, the owner, the apartment dweller, and the executives paying business rentals, of course. Up goes the insurance. Up go the rents.

But this is a small part of the $16 billion worth of annual thievery. Some reports indicate that, in all, some $2 billion is stolen annually in the transportation of cargo alone. It is said that organized gangs as well as Mafiosi ring virtually every international airport.

Thus the hardest hit is truck cargo. In 1969, the thievery and hijacking of trucks, some of them carrying air freight, some hauling anything from dresses to cigarettes, came to $702 million. Today it is well over a billion dollars yearly. The "heists" are pulled along any central city street, boulevard or crossing. Like the Old West stagecoach days.

Legitimate truckers report they were confounded to learn in some cities that they could get very little police help, little prosecutors' protection and little more than a stifled yawn when they reported the hijacking.

So they organized their own police force with all the modern gadgets. It was run by the Trucking Industry Committee on Theft and Hijacking (TICOTH). This was in early 1969. Then in 1970, the truckers and the Teamsters national office wrote a clause in their National Master Freight Hauling contract creating a National Cargo Security Committee.

Now everybody works with everybody else--- the union, the truckers, the Justice Department, the Transportation Department and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Trouble is that the thievery rockets. The rackets haven't been disturbed. Apparently, the mobsters know whom to reach. Their "fences" do it for them.

And the tribe will increase if the spotlight isn't on the reports and exposes of Sen. Bible. The airport rackets and trucking heists are the "thing."

Soon the international airports will move as much cargo as do the docks. Experts believe that, with the new Boeing 747s and the Lockheed L500s, the docks, even with new close- by "container farms" (areas in which huge steel containers are packed for automatic ship loading), will run behind on cargo. The L500 can carry 100 small cars and spare parts and accessories in one load. And it can make four cross- country trips a day. Or transatlantic crossings.

Obviously, the hijacking and massive thievery will skyrocket at the airports. Obviously, past exposures haven't slowed this. But the stolen stuff must be sold.

If gangs can't "fence" the loot, there may be no point in plotting and stealing. So the Senate committee is zeroing in on the underground "criminal distribution system."

If this is cut down, so will the cost of living and doing business.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
The Watergate Follies

WASHINGTON-- The Watergate Follies, set to music, would make splendid comic opera. Here are just a few stranger- than- fiction episodes THE LEFT HANDED PITCH: G. Gordon Liddy, the Watergate ringleader, tried to impress a couple of girls in Detroit by holding his hand over a flaming candle. His hand was so badly burned that it almost spoiled his Watergate presentation before Attorney General John Mitchell, White House counsel John Dean and campaign aide Jeb Stuart Magruder in Mitchell's office on February 4, 1972.

Liddy brought along huge, fancy charts to illustrate the bugging operation. Because he couldn't carry the cumbersome charts in his injured right hand, he juggled them awkwardly in his left. This trouble with the charts detracted from his otherwise slick, Madison Avenue- style presentation of the Watergate crime there in the citadel of law- and- order.

BUGGING ON CREDIT: President Nixon's fund raisers stashed millions in campaign boodle across the country, yet they still haven't paid for all the bugging equipment the Watergate wiretappers were carrying when they were caught. The Committee to Re-Elect the President still owes $13,600 to Michael Stevens, whose Chicago company supplied the buggers with sophisticated electronic devices. Some of the equipment was actually in use, but six custom- made, high frequency transmitters and receivers, four of them suitable for bugging rooms, the other two for intercepting phone conversations, were ordered but never picked up.

One of the conspirators, James McCord, surreptitiously came for some of the equipment at 3 o'clock one morning. Through his attorneys, McCord acknowledged the purchases and said he had paid $5,400 in cash, leaving the balance due. Devan Shumway, spokesman for the President's committee, told us "it would be inappropriate to pay any such bill for equipment allegedly used for illegal purposes."

SPY IN A CLOSET: Whodunit writer E. Howard Hunt, another Watergate conspirator, was assigned to reconnoiter the Watergate layout. He tried to enter through a dining room, but couldn't get a connecting door open without alarming a guard.

So the ex- CIA agent remained locked in the dining room all night, sleeping in a closet. He finally escaped at 7 a.m. after the office building was opened and began to fill with people.

ALIASES AND DISGUISES: The Three Stooges of the Watergate Follies-- Liddy, Hunt and McCord-- took elaborate precautions to conceal their nefarious activities. Hunt sometimes wore a preposterous red wig to go with his patrician looks. All three used assumed names, carried false identification, communicated by pay phones and exchanged cryptic messages.

Liddy's most successful pseudonym was "George," the real first name he never uses. One day, Watergate conspirator Bernard Barker called Liddy's White House office and asked for "George." Puzzled, Liddy's secretary said there was a phone call for George. "Just who is George?" demanded George Gordon Liddy.

OLIVER'S SECRET: Hundreds of thousands of dollars were spent on the Watergate bugging and its consequences. Lost in all the hullabaloo has been the intelligence that the Republicans got for their money.

A wiretap was successfully installed on the office phone of Democratic party official Spencer Oliver. The first problem was that there were two Spencer Olivers, father and son. The most momentous information picked up by the wiretappers was that one of the Spencer Olivers was planning a trip to either North Carolina or South Carolina to talk to North Carolina's former governor, Terry Sanford.

DAY AFTER WATERGATE: On the eve of their arrest, the Watergate burglary- bugging crew had trouble gaining access to Democratic headquarters. Bernard Barker telephoned a cryptic message to Liddy that he was having key trouble. Trouble with the "car key," he added mysteriously.

Nevertheless, the crew broke into the Democratic lair and was arrested at gunpoint at 2:30 this morning. The news caused panic inside the President's campaign headquarters. Liddy phoned press chief Devan Shumway to explain they had a minor "public relations problem" at the Committee for the Re-Election of the President.

As the news spread, officials began removing and destroying sensitive documents. Liddy began churning documents through a small shredder, then rushed upstairs to a larger shredder that would do the job faster. His secretary, Sally Harmony, even shredded her shorthand notebooks eventually.

Other officials, not knowing the President's campaign security chief James McCord had led the burglary squad, discussed whether burglars could break into their headquarters. Not a chance, campaign administrator Robert Odle assured them. He told them he had brought in an experienced security man to equip every nook and cranny with antibreak- in devices. What was the man's name? Jim McCord, Odle told them proudly.

STRANGE BOOKKEEPING: The stolid McCord, the ultimate bureaucrat, tried to give Hunt's wife a receipt when she delivered hush money to him in an envelope. Even Liddy signed small white chits with a special mark when he withdrew cash from the committee.

But former White House aide Gordon Strachan delivered $350,000 in $20, $50 and $100 bills to the Watergate apartment of campaign official Fred LaRue. No receipt was asked and none was given.

Fire damages home

Firemen were called at 12:50 p.m. Sunday to the Homer Edwards home at 833 Ruth St. when a fire swept through a back bedroom and the attic.

Fire Chief Larry Linnemeyer said the fire was apparently caused by faulty wiring in the bedroom of the six- room frame home.

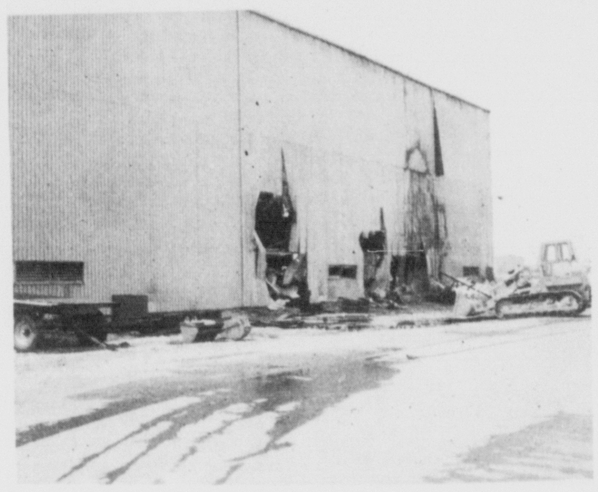

Linnemeyer said the bedroom and attic were extensively damaged and the remainder of the home suffered smoke damage. Firemen were at the scene for one hour.

The case of the conforming house

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Jasper was part of a group of 10 young adults, male and female, some of whom were dirtier than others only because they were older. Overcoming an apparent strong fear of bathing, they rented a one- family house at the seashore. And while the waves roared, they didn't roar half as loud as certain members of the community who objected to the presence amongst them of Jasper and his group. In fact, they finally complained to the Town Board and a lawsuit was started to oust Jasper and his crew from the one- family house.

"Their occupancy of the house," local officials told the judge, "is in violation of the law. Zoning regulations allow for only 'one- family' residences in the area. And Jasper and his young adults aren't a family, they're a convention."

"There's no violation," retorted Jasper. "The house is, in fact, a 'one- family' residence. Consequently, it complies with the zoning regulations. And while the house may have to conform, there's no law that we have to also."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you oust Jasper and his group from the one- family house?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that in occupying the one- family house, Jasper and his group were in violation of the zoning regulations. Considering the ordinary and commonly accepted meaning of the phrase "one family," Jasper's 10 unrelated adult friends could hardly be considered as constituting a family.

Ann Landers

'Dirty' mail should be sent to post office inspector

Dear Ann Landers: Now that society has taken a permissive attitude toward hard- core pornography it seems that whenever I go to the mailbox there is some dirty thing that I have to tear up so my children don't see it.

I don't know how in heaven's name I got on these mailing lists. I have never sent for anything except a seed catalog and kitchen gadgets. I have no interest in this trash and I don't want it coming to our home. Mind you, I have no desire to deprive those who enjoy looking at garbage but why must people who don't want it be subjected to this invasion of privacy?

Will you please tell us, Ann Landers, what we can do?--- Mrs. Square America

Dear M.S.A.: The federal government has been successfully prosecuting several major purveyors of mail- order obscenity as a result of complaints filed by postal inspectors. The most effective way of handling the problem, Mrs. Square America, is to reseal the envelope and write on it, in bold letters, Postal Inspector, Please. Then drop it in the mailbox. No stamp is necessary.

Dear Ann Landers: First let me say I have two wonderful parents. They mean well, but. .

I am 28, have been happily married for eight years and we have four children. We built a house that was finished a few months ago, about 40 miles from where my parents live. We expect them here every Sunday.

My father is a pleasure and gives the children a great deal of attention, but my mother can't sit down for five minutes. She is either rearranging the cabinets, vacuuming, polishing the furniture or tidying up a closet. I am a good housekeeper and don't need any help. I've mentioned my feelings to her but to no avail. Meanwhile my husband becomes more irritated by the minute. He interprets her activities as a slam against my housekeeping. I want my mother to be a guest in our home, relax and enjoy her grandchildren.

Any suggestions--- Neat Enough For Us

Dear Neat: Your mother's non- stop vacuuming, polishing and tidying up has nothing to do with your housekeeping. It is a manifestation of her discomfort, her inability to be a part of the family. These activities are an excuse to isolate herself. Once you and your husband understand this, YOU will be able to relax and let Mrs. Clean do her own thing.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married three weeks. We just had our first big fight. We've agreed to let you be the referee and your decision will be final.

Seven days after we returned from our honeymoon Ben started to read the newspaper at the breakfast table. I told him I consider this an insult and I asked him to stop. Ben says it's a lifelong habit and I have no right to make such a demand. He also claims he is not much of a morning communicator and it is better for our relationship if I try not to force him to be chatty. I say, now that he's a married man, he should be mature enough to drop his bachelor- type habits. What do you say?--- Betty

Dear Betty: I say now that you're a married woman, you should be mature enough to leave him alone. Some people are not morning communicators and for them the newspaper can be a blessing.

A child's mistake must be his own

By SHAREN K. HUNT
HOME ECONOMIST

This is a review of an article by Dr. Bruno Bettelheim in "Marriage Means Encounter".

Children always try to buffalo parents. Most generations didn't let themselves be buffaloed, but now, parents seem more insecure. This is especially so, when children accuse, "You're trying to run my life."

Dr. Bettelheim believes parents show good judgment when they enforce guidelines for their children's behavior. They need the right mixture of their own choices and being protected against making the wrong choices. Children should be permitted to chose, only when, if they do make wrong choices, the consequences won't be terribly destructive or harmful to themselves or others. But if they do choose, then the full consequences should be felt so they may learn for the future.

For example, parents need to stand by if a youngster gets arrested for some sort of violation, but should not run interference with him with authorities, so that he feels the results.

Another example is giving one the right to choose to go on to college or not, or to quit after one year. This is a meaningful choice and one that also can be changed. You can return to college after a year's absence. You can go later, so the wrong choice won't have disastrous effects.

But when the outcome of a youngster's choice are far-reaching and irreversible, appropriate maturity and knowledge of the world is needed, so we can't let a 12-year- old decide to quit school.

Some feel youth are given too many choices and decisions too early in life. For example, the episode of the fifth graders who were advised by their teacher to make up their own minds which drugs to use and which ones not to. Or the 13- year-old who demanded that if she couldn't run her own life, she would run away. Her parents, who felt they shouldn't interfere and let her decide for herself, said nothing. She left, waited for them to come after her and concluded, they didn't care enough.

She has been "given the freedom to decide and arrang her own life? Running her own life was beyond her ability and led to unfortunate consequences and a feeling that she was totally incompetent and unable to make things turn out right.

Because children often protest and object to this "checking up", many parents feel it is wrong and don't do it. The youth then may come to think they don't care or that he should be able to do it all by himself. But if he can't do what he feels parents expect, then his trust in himself is undermined.

The problem (or maybe challenge) is deciding which choices the child can safely make and learn from, and which we should not let him make because of immaturity, because we feel, that given his immaturity, he'll make wrong choices and come to grief.

It's one thing to let them decide on things that aren't harmful, it's something else to project him into anxiety by asking him to make decisions that no 12, 13, or 14- year- old should be asked to make.

Girl Scouts present portrait

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Girl Scouts presented a portrait of Juliette Low to the National Portrait Gallery at Smithsonian Institution March 28, in Washington, D.C.

A reception honoring Girl Scout officers and executives followed in the gallery. Around 350 special guests attended, including many senators and congressmen. Fifty Girl Scouts in uniform represented each of the nation's 50 states at the event.

The portrait was painted by the noted English artist, Edward Hughes, who was widely known before the turn of the century as "a painter of beautiful women and children." Mrs. Low's portrait was done in England around 1887, soon after her marriage to William Low.

Until its presentation to the National Portrait Gallery, the painting has hung in the south drawing room of Mrs. Low's birthplace. An exact replica now hangs there.

SeMo U. choir plans concerts

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The Southeast Missouri State University choir will present concerts in Jackson, Sikeston and Cape Girardeau late this month and early next month.

Doyle Dumas, director of the choir, said the 42-member group will perform today at the Presbyterian church in Jackson, Sunday at First United Methodist Church in Sikeston and on May 10 in the auditorium of Academic Hall o the Southeast Missouri State campus.

All three concerts will begin at 8 p.m.

Dumas, associate professor of music at the university, said the choir would perform essentially the same program it will present on its tour of Europe from May 20 to June 4.

Sacred for the most part, the choir's numbers will range from a Gregorian chant through the 15th and 16th centuries up to the present day. The longest piece will be a mass by Ralph Vaughn Williams which will feature four soloists.

They are Patti Fisher, soprano, of Ames, Iowa; Sally Hilpert, alto, of Cape Girardeau; Steve Meier, tenor, of Jackson; and Brennan Colyer, baritone, of Jackson.

Most of the music will be designed for cathedrals, Duma said, "since we will be singing in a lot of the old cathedrals on our tour of Europe."

The director added, "We will be doing some American folk songs -- something that will give our European audiences an idea of what is typically American."

The tour of Europe will take the Southeast Missouri State choir to Holland, Germany, Austria, France and Switzerland. The students will present concerts about every other day during their two-week visit.

Doctor Develops Home Treatment that

RINSES AWAY BLACKHEADS
HELPS DRY UP ACNE-PIMPLES . . .

QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE 15 MINUTE HOME TREATMENT MUST SHOW IMMEDIATE IMPROVEMENT OR — YOUR MONEY BACK!

A leading New York Doctor, working with a cosmetic laboratory, has developed a simple home treatment that rinses away blackheads, helps dry up acne pimples, and shrinks enlarged pores. The name of this medicated product is QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE. Apply this delightfully Mint-Scented Cream and within 2 or 3 minutes an absorbing agent called Argilla dries and turns this cream into a plastic-like masque. You will now feel as though hundreds of "tiny fingers" are kneading the skin, loosening pore-caked dirt, blackheads, and other foreign impurities. As it firms and hardens, its suction action draws out waste matter from the pores. . . In 15 minutes you simply rinse the masque away with lukewarm water which dissolves it immediately. When you wipe your face, you can see that blackheads and other pore "filler" actually come off on your wash cloth. And your skin feels clean . . . really clean . . . refreshed, smooth like velvet. Women 35 and over will enjoy the skin tightening experience as the masque relaxes tired facial muscles and eases tension lines on face and throat. If you suffer the agony of blackheads, acne-pimples, and enlarged pores, give yourself this home treatment and see the breath-taking results. Ask for it by name, QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE.

Cards use big inning

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "Everybody's been saying we needed the big inning," Red Schoendienst said optimistically. "Maybe this was it."

Schoendienst's St. Louis Cardinals, threatening to become baseball's worst team, Sunday arose to smite prospectively the best, the San Francisco Giants, 8-3.

As important as the victory, the Cards' third in 18 games, was a six-run explosion in the sixth inning featuring five hits, a walk, a sacrifice fly and a crucial Giants miscue.

"Mostly it's been a matter of our swinging at bad pitches," noted Schoendienst, whose team was hitting .213 and is averaging three runs a game.

"It's really not so much bad pitches but pitches the other team has wanted us to hit," he added. "We've been tight. I just hope we turned the corner."

The Cardinals, shut out in two straight previous games, trailed Juan Marichal, 4-2, and the Giants by 3-2 before arising Sunday much like a sports world's Lazarus.

U.S. takes Russians

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Uncle Sam appears to have built a truly formidable national basketball team this year after the disappointment of 1972, yet Coach Bob Cousy says his squad must be tougher to continue whipping the Russians.

The international series continues here tonight following Sunday's 83-65 victory for the United States, a triumph at the Forum in Inglewood, Calif., which was the first meeting between the nations since the Olympic finale at Munich.

The Russians won that time 51-50 in the super-controversial ending where the U.S. claimed the USSR was given three seconds of additional time after the game ended.

Tonight there was doubt that Bill Walton, UCLA's national player of the year for both 1971 and 1972, could play because of an injury, but he wants to try because San Diego is his hometown.

Walton suffered strained ligaments in his left knee when he was knocked down near the end of the first half.

Although the revenge factor has been soft pedaled, this game was rough throughout, and the Russians had absolutely nothing to say after it was over.

Vladimir Khudoleev, leader of the visiting delegation, came to the dressing room door to tell newsmen:

"We lost the game and there is no need to comment further."

Cousy, coach of the Kansas City-Omaha pro team now handling the national squad, said:

"I think the kids underestimated them a little bit. But I certainly didn't. We've got to execute better. We've got to be more physical.

"It's mayhem out there, especially under the basket. The international game is very, very physical, especially inside."

The USA and USSR play a six-game series this time from coast to coast.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Ancient Title, $4.20, barely held off a surging Groshawk to score by a head in the $55,050 Inglewood Stakes at Hollywood Park.

Frazier sounds warning

BOSTON (AP) — The New York Knicks trained their sights on the Los Angeles Lakers today with confidence Sunday after whipping the Boston Celtics 9478 and advancing to the National Basketball Association's championship round.

After a slow start, with Frazier scoring only two points in the first period, the Knicks came on strong to defeat the Celtics in the seventh and deciding game of the Eastern playoff final. Defense was the key, with the Knicks holding the big advantage.

"Our defense picked them up right away, that was the key," Frazier said after finishing with 25 points. "The Celtics were playing with a two-man offense, Dave Cowens and Jo Jo White, and you can only play so long with that."

Then the All-Star backcourt sharp-shooter recalled reading that the Lakers had rooted for a New York victory, giving Los Angeles the home court advantage in the best-of-seven championship series opening in California Tuesday night.

"We were 2-2 with them this year," Holzman said. "However, the last game we played at Los Angeles was a game that really meant something— and we won. We did some things in that game that we can take into the series coming up."

The Knicks, who trailed 22-19 after the first period, came alive in the second quarter after young Dean Meminger came off the bench to replace ailing Earl Monroe. New York hustled to a 45-40 halftime lead and then blew out the Celtics in the final two periods.

"We knew we had to play physical and aggressive from the start, and we did," Meminger said. "In the last couple of games, we played well enough, but weren't physical enough and lost."

Cowens scored 24 points and White contributed 22, but the Knicks shut off other Boston shooters. The Celtics' 78 points represented the fewest by any New York opponent this season.

"New York played great and won it," Boston Coach Tommy Heinsohn said.

Controversy in ABA

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky Colonels officials conferred today to decide whether to file an official protest of Saturday's 111-107 overtime loss to the Indiana Pacers in the final round of the American Basketball Association playoffs

Meanwhile, the second game in the best-of-7 series will be played tonight in Louisville.

The Colonels announced they were playing Saturday's game under protest in the third period after referee Norm Drucker whistled center Artis Gilmore for a three-second lane violation. On the play, Gilmore took a pass on an in-bounds play and put the ball in the basket.

"We have viewed the game on our video tape and it is clear that no three-second violation occurred," president-general manager Mike Storen said Sunday.

"The problem is that the official has the perogative of making the determination of the expiration of the time. And that supersedes the mechanical devices," he said.

An official protest with the league office must be filed within 48 hours along with $500.

Mizzou's M&M star

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Missouri football Coach Al Onofrio says he is pleased "withour attitude and the way we progressed" during spring practice.

Onofrio made the statement after the Golds had defeated the Blacks 26-14 Saturday in the Tigers' annual spring game. The Golds, down 14-6 at the half, staged a stirring comeback with a 20-point third quarter and the Bengals displayed some brilliant runners in Bill Marx and Leroy Moss and the passing of Steve Pisarkiewicz and Ray Smith.

Marx gained 120 yards on 20 carries and Moss 98 yards on 27 thrusts. Pisarkiewicz, a freshman, completed seven of 22 passes for 98 yards, including a 37-yarder to Ted Beckett for a touchdown for the Golds.

Greg Hill's extra point after the Beckett touchdown gave the Golds a 19-14 lead they never lost. Moss, who scored two touchdowns for the Golds, made six points on a 98-yard kickoff return and six more on a one-yard run. Ricky Cook made the other Gold touchdown on a three-yard burst.

The Blacks struck for touchdowns twice before the Golds got started. Tom Mulkey scored first on a five-yard pass reception of a Smith toss. Smith scored on a five-yard run.

The Tigers played without three of their best backs, quarterback John Cherry and Tommy Reamon and Ray Bybee, all sidelined with injuries.

"For a spring game, I was pleased with the hitting out there," Onofrio said. "It's good to see a team jump out into a 14-0 lead, and it's good to watch a team, if it's yours, come back to go ahead.

"You're never at the level where you want to be at this time of year. Both quarterbacks had a fine day. Smith had his in the first half, and Pisarkiewicz had his in the second half. For the amount of work they have had, they performed fairly well."

White Sox move into first place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Despite a pair of weekend victories, the Chicago White Sox don't care much for Fenway Park...and lately it hasn't been home, sweet, home for the Boston Red Sox, either.

"I don't like this park," Dick Allen said Sunday after swatting a home run into the center field bleachers during Chicago's 5-0 trimming of the Red Sox.

"I don't like this park; I really don't," echoed Bill Melton, who found the bleachers with a two-run homer in the third inning after Allen drove in the White Sox' first run with a groundout.

"This team just needs a break," said Boston Manager Eddie Kasko, whose club has dropped seven of its last eight Fenway frolics and dropped into last place in the American League East.

Elsewhere in the AL, Oakland edged Baltimore 4-3, the New York Yankees took a doubleheader from Minnesota 6-3 and 11-1, Detroit whipped Kansas City 6-1, Texas downed Milwaukee 2-1 and Cleveland nipped California 3-2.

In the National League, Los Angeles took two from Pittsburgh 9-8 in 13 innings and 2-1, St. Louis trounced San Francisco 8-3, New York shaded Atlanta 1-0, Chicago lathered San Diego 10-4, Cincinnati drubbed Philadelphia 8-0 and Houston edged Montreal 4-3.

Explaining his dislike for Fenway Park, Melton said: "It's the way they pitch to you, going for the corners, either away or inside. If it's inside, you have to pull the ball, but you know it's probably a bad pitch."

The last four outings have been good to the White Sox, who have won seven of eight road games and pushed past Kansas City into first place in the AL West.

Oakland's Catfish Hunter, a 21-game winner last year, finally posted his first 1973 triumph, although he needed help from Rollie Fingers in the ninth, when Baltimore scored all its runs on a homer by Bobby Grich and Brooks Robinson's two-run single.

The Yankees continued their new-found stickwork, cracking out 23 hits in sweeping the Twins. The barrage included four singles, a double and five runs batted in by slump-ridden Ron Blomberg and a home run and three singles by Graig Nettles. Mel Stottlemyre scattered seven hits in the opener and Fritz Peterson and Lindy McDaniel did the same in the nightcap.

Detroit's Joe Coleman scattered eight Kansas City hits in joining Chicago's Wilbur Wood as the majors' first five-game winners and battery-mate Duke Sims hit a two-run homer. It was only Kansas City's second loss in nine road games but sufficed to drop the Royals out of the lead in the West Division. They trail the White Sox by .048 percentage points.

Run-scoring singles by Dave Nelson and Toby Harrah with two out in the ninth inning lifted Texas over Milwaukee and prevented the Brewers from moving into first place in the East.

Cleveland tied California on an eighth-inning homer by rookie Charlie Spikes, his sixth, and won on a circuit by George Hendrick in the ninth off winless Clyde Wright, 0-4.

Pirates struggle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

You really have to hand it to the Los Angeles Dodgers. The Pittsburgh Pirates did Sunday.

"We aren't playing well," admitted Pittsburgh Manager Bill Virdon in an obvious understatement after his floundering Pirates lost a doubleheader for their fifth straight setback.

"It's too early to worry about the standings," said Virdon after the three-time National League East champions dropped a 9-8 decision in 13 innings in the first game and 2-1 in the second.

The Pirates, who opened as one of the hottest teams in baseball with an 8-1 record, dropped to third place at 8-6, one game off the pace of the East-leading New York Mets.

It isn't Panicsville yet, though, said Virdon.

"There's no reason to panic," said the Pirate manager. "I think we'll eventually play well."

In the other National League games Sunday, the Chicago Cubs walloped the San Diego Padres 10-4; the St. Louis Cardinals trimmed the San Francisco Giants 8-3; the New York Mets beat the Atlanta Braves 10; the Cincinnati Reds stopped the Philadelphia Phillies 8-0 and the Houston Astros defeated the Montreal Expos 4-3.

In the American League, the New York Yankees took a doubleheader from the Minnesota Twins 6-3 and 11-1; the Chicago White Sox downed the Boston Red Sox 5-0; the Detroit Tigers turned back the Kansas City Royals 6-1; the Oakland A's beat the Baltimore Orioles 4-3; the Cleveland Indians nipped the California Angels 3-2 and the Texas Rangers edged the Milwaukee Brewers 2-1.

One of the Pittsburgh mistakes Sunday was a fat pitch by reliever Ramon Hernandez. He laid it down the middle for Tom Paciorek and the Dodger youngster drilled it for a double to knock in the winning run in the 13th inning of the four-hour opener.

Another was an error by first baseman Bob Robertson allowed the Dodgers to score their first run in the nightcap and Willie Davis drove in the deciding run with a triple.

Pinch-hitter Paul Popovich delivered a two-run single in a four-run, sixth-inning flurry as Chicago downed San Diego. The win was the second of the year for Ferguson Jenkins.

Lou Brock's bases-loaded triple following a two-out error by San Francisco third baseman Ed Goodson capped a sixrun rally in the sixth inning to pull St. Louis past the Giants.

The Cardinals are currently buried in the NL East cellar with a 3-15 record.

Gunter predicts gasoline rationing to American drivers

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Gasoline rationing for individual American drivers was predicted here Sunday by Rep. William Gunter, D-Fla., a member of the House Subcommittee on Energy.

Gunter told some 400 members of the Missouri's 6th District Congressional Club the energy crisis could have been foreseen and prevented but "we have been blind to this potential problem and now it has hit us like a sledgehammer."

"I believe we will see rationing by the industries themselves this year," Gunter said. "Toward the end of this year the major oil companies will limit the number of gallons of gasoline sold to a customer at one time."

Oil production in the continental United States has peaked, the Florida Democrat said, and will decline in the future.

He noted that ecological dangers and technical problems have limited nuclear power sources as a potential solution and the U.S. should not count on Middle East imports because of the unstable political situation in that part of the world.

"Our committee has been shown that even if the potential new sources of oil, such as offshore drilling and the Alaska pipeline, are exploited they will not be enough to meet potential needs if we continue at the present rate of consumption," Gunter said.

He pointed out that the U.S., with only 6 per cent of the world population, uses 33 per cent of the world's energy. "Some habit-changing and education are in order for the American people," he added.

Gunter suggested the American conservation effort should include use of smaller cars consuming less gas, expansion of mass transit systems and cutbacks in the use of household electrical appliances.

He also proposed stepping up research and development efforts to find viable alternative sources of energy.

Before federal controls or stricter regulations are imposed, Gunter said, Congress should seek voluntary controls from industry on energy consumption.

AAUP votes to censure Missouri U procedures

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The American Association of University Professors has voted to censure the University of Missouri for action the school took against several professors who participated in campus demonstration in the Spring of 1970.

The AAUP, holding its annual meeting in St. Louis this past weekend, also voted to censur Southern Illinois UniversityCarbondale and eight other schools for their failures to correct conditions that "are seriously violative of the association's principles of academic freedom and tenure."

The Missouri school received censure for its actions in disciplining eight professors at the Columbia campus for their parts in activities protesting the U.S. invasion into Cambodia and the violence against students at Kent State University and Jackson State College.

One of the eight professors was denied tenure, another was threatened with discharge, and the others docked pay for dismissing classes so students could participate in antiwar activities.

Fane said he and the board believed the censure was "neither meaningful nor just" because of new procedures developed by the school.

SIU was cited for the refusal of the school's board of trustees to grant tenure to a faculty member on two occasions, even though the professor on one occasion had been recommended for tenure by his department and the president of the university. The AAUP report also pointed out the failure of the school's new president to provide further opportunity for review of the case.

The AAUP also voted to censure McKendree College in Lebanaon, Ill., Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y., Colorado School of Mines in Golden, Colo., Marshall University in Huntington, W.Va., Ohio State University in Columbus, Rider College at Trenton, N.J., Queensborough Community College in New York City, East Tennessee State University in Johnston City and West Chester State College in West Chester, Pa.

In another action the AAUP voted to urge president Richard Nixon to grant amnesty to the American youths who conscientiously resisted or refused to participate in the Vietnam War.

"It is now more urgent than ever to heal the wounds of war and overcome the deep divisions which the war has engineered," the membership of the AAUP said in a statement released Sunday.

"With the spirit of reconciliation hopefully emerging in our foreign policy, it is only just that a like reconciliation be effected among our own people," the association said.

In 1935 Gene Sarazen won the 1935 Masters golf title in a 36-hole playoff against the late Craig Wood. Sarazen won by five strokes.

Heavy equipment at work

Herbert W. "Bud" Hartley of Wyatt is one of several workers who helped repair the Scott County levee Sunday night where wave wash had gouged great amounts of earth from the levee side six miles south of Commerce.

Price controls may end tonight

If that authority is to be renewed for one year, both houses must act on the controls bill. But the Senate-floor route has been blocked by maneuvering over a postcard- voter- registration bill.

A minority of Southern and conservative senators has stalled the registration bill, sponsored by Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo. A vote to close off debate on the registration bill was set for this afternoon.

However, McGee, according to aides, will not budge from his position of holding off wage- price action until he gets a final vote on his measure. He had blocked action of the controls bill when Congress recessed 10 days ago.

Meanwhile, there was apprehension over what might happen if President Nixon's largely voluntary Phase 3 controls are allowed to lapse.

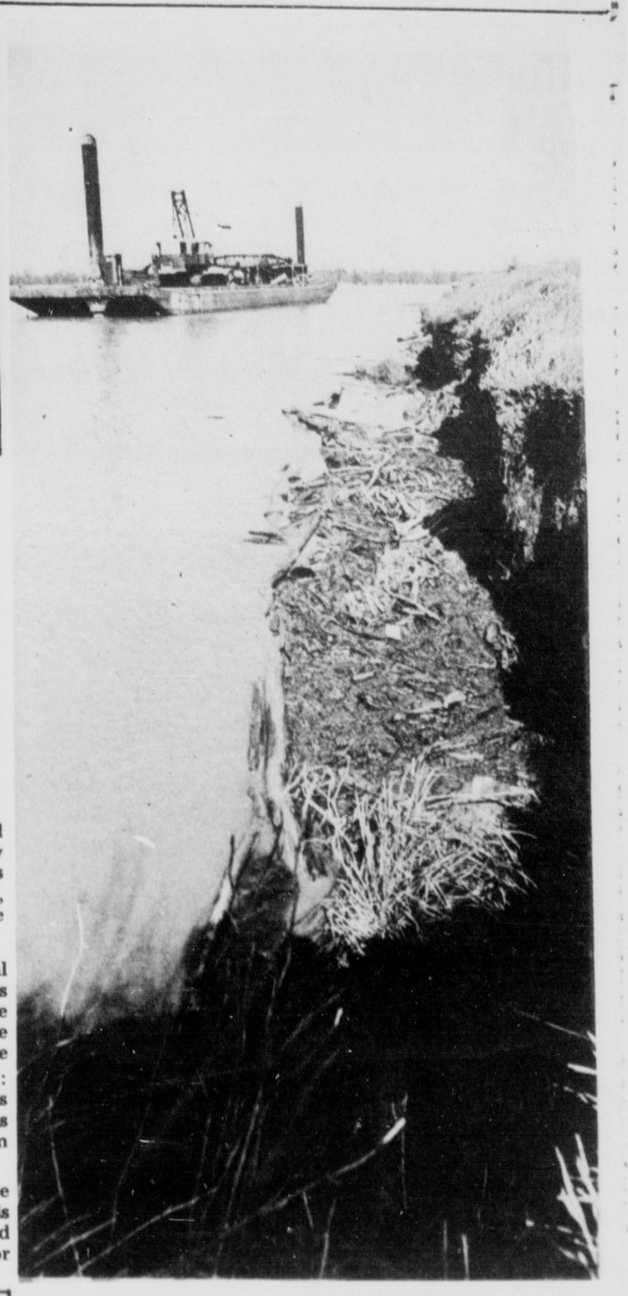

"In just one day prices could go up and they would be very, very difficult to roll back," says Sen. Willaim Proxmire, D-Wis.

But other congressmen suggested that meat prices — which cannot exceed a ceiling ordered by Nixon — could be rolled back if raised, should presidential control authority expire. Mandatory controls also affect the food, construction and health- care industries.

Republicans dislike several Senate wage- price amendments that survived the House- Senate conference called to reconcile the different versions of the bill. These amendments would:

—Require big corporations to make public their reasons for raising prices under certain conditions.

—Give the president the power to allocate fuels throughout the nation and among independent and major oil companies.

Damage repaired

Administration plans trade

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Office of Administration plans to trade in a sixpassenger plane for two smaller planes to transport Missouri state officials, it was learned today.

The cost of the new planes will be greater than the value of the 1965 Grand Commander to be traded in, said George Guersey, assistant to Robert L. James, aide to Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

An audit by the state auditor last week showed the Commander, owned by the highway patrol, is used for non-patrol purposes 73 per cent of the time.

The Commander costs $72.8 an hour to operate, compared with $25 per hour for a smaller replacement proposed by the highway patrol, which has budgeted $75,000 for the new plane.

The governor's office has one plane, a 1968 Merlin turbo-prop purchased in 1969 for $455,000, used primarily to transport the governor.

Investigation is continuing.

Isom received face cuts; Susan Wellman, 18, of Festus, face cuts and leg bruises; Thomas Brennan, 21, of Webster Groves, cuts; and Joseph Torrisi, 19, of St. Louis, possible chest injury. All were taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

A motorcycle accident at 6:45 p.m. Saturday on Route CC five miles south of Arcadia resulted in injuries to a passenger, Barbara Whelehon, 39, of Ironton.

The accident occurred when the tire of a motorcycle driven by Oscar Franklin Simmons, 19, of Iron Mountain went flat and the cycle ran off the road.

"We're at almost exactly the same stage now that we were two weeks ago," said the Corps' Ken Long referring to the first crest of the spring floods. "Everyone was going to take the sandbags down, sweep up and live happily ever after. It's going to take several days to get back to flood stage and we can't anticipate that far ahead."

The town of Portage des Sioux, on the Mississippi about 15 miles north of St. Charles, was completely cut off by the floodwaters of the Mississippi and Missouri after a major St. Charles County levee was topped last week.

Perishables were being flown into the town of about 500 daily by Army helicopter. About 200 residents have been evacuated since the city wqs isolated last week.

"We know now why the Indians gave this away," said Mayor Vincent Eilers as he surveyed his water-logged city Sunday. The local tavern was reportedly prepared for a long siege, having brought in 186 cases of beer just before the floodwaters cut the city off.

Farther south on the Mississippi, residents of McClure, Ill., across from Cape Girardeau, were still without telephone service, and officials said the only communication outside the town was through a police radio hooked up to the Coast Guard Communications Center in Cape Girardeau.

The Coast Guard reported that a Florissant, Mo., man was rescued from the Mississippi Sunday afternoon after his pontoon boat was seen floating out of control about two miles south of the Jefferson Barracks Bridge in south St. Louis County.
